2nd Man Held In Cop-Shooting

2 New Yorkers Accused In Burglary Series

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Highway Patrol today is holding two men in the wounding of a patrolman. The shooting happened early Thursday outside a drive-in restaurant on U. S. 40 west of here as he attempted to stop a burglary.

Walter John Jankowski, 28-year-old parole violator from Buffalo, N. Y., was arrested Thursday afternoon as he was walking along a Licking County road about two miles north of Kirkersville, the patrol reported. He apparently has aliases of Frank Ashley and Frank Roff.

Earlier, the patrol said James Stanley Myers, 20, also of Buffalo, admitted he shot patrolman Augustine P. Guiffre. Myers was arrested 2½ hours after the shooting when the convertible in which he was fleeing crashed at the site of highway construction work west of Kirkersville.

A second man—the patrol says it was Jankowski—escaped.

Guiffre was shot five times, but is reported in good condition in a local hospital.

COLUMBUS POLICE said the car which was wrecked was stolen from a used car lot here. They said the pair is charged with burglary, and grand larceny in connection with three break-ins here. The patrol reported it will file charges of shooting with intent to kill.

Myers, who talked freely after his arrest, told police that he and Jankowski left Buffalo in a stolen car Nov. 1, stealing automobile license plates as they went south into South Carolina, then headed west to California. He said they broke into numerous business places along the way.

Red Scientist Warns Soviet On Gains

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia's top scientist warned the Soviet Union today against "overestimating our scientific achievement."

"Great efforts are still needed to beat the United States on all scientific fronts," Alexander N. Nesmeyanov, chairman of the Soviet Academy of Science, told a session of the Supreme Soviet, Russia's Parliament.

Nesmeyanov's speech was in sharp contrast to previous boasts of Soviet scientific achievement. He appeared to be seeking even greater appropriations for scientific development.

Plans to increase Soviet spending on scientific research by about 11 per cent next year to the equivalent of $4½ billion were announced to the Supreme Soviet Thursday.

Nesmeyanov said this compared with an annual increase in the United States of 12 per cent.

The U. S. National Science Foundation estimates that the United States, through government and industry, spends about $5 billion a year on research, much of it on consumer products not developed in Russia.

Nesmeyanov criticized "too many useless expenditures" in science and scientific equipment, too much duplication of work, and industry's practice of sometimes failing to produce necessities.

Evan P. Ford Seeks Common Pleas Post

Evan P. Ford, former state senator from Pickaway and Franklin counties, yesterday obtained petitions from the Pickaway County Board of Elections as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Common Pleas Judge.

Ford, an attorney, has been practicing law in Columbus and Canal Winchester. He has been a candidate for State senator several times and was a candidate for the Ohio Supreme Court recently. He is about 43 years old and is unmarried. He owns a farm in Madison Twp., near Ashville.

The Legacy of Luke

Vivid Memories Pierced To Compile Story of Jesus

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In a village nestled on the side of a valley ringed by 15 rounded hills, the boy Jesus attained manhood. The village was Nazareth. Here is a description of how Luke may have investigated there before writing the beautiful verse which starts: "And the child grew and became strong...")

By George Cornell

Associated Press Religion Writer—A lone figure strode down the echoing stone corridor, through the gates of the castle prison, along the cobbled street and out of the city of Caesarea. Luke was off on his great quest.

He had bade farewell to his confined leader, Paul, before setting out on an exploration that would take him—he knew not where.

"The Lord go with you," the road inland led to the east across the valley of Sharon to Legio, a small town of Samaria Northward from there stretched the broad plains of Esdraelon in Galilee, and just beyond that Nazareth.

There, perhaps, or elsewhere in those fertile, gentle hills, lay the goal of Luke's search—the story of God's descent to man, of the coming of the Messiah, a stroke of providence that arches over all history.

COULD THE CURIOUS, one-time pagan physician, even with his disciplined skills of diagnosis, pierce this marvel?

It had been long ago. Luke, in Jesus' days, had been only a boy, not yet in his teens, and in his distant heathen city, heard nothing of Him. But now in his middle years, a fervent believer, he hunted more enlightenment.

Luke's sandals made a measured beat on the pebbled road. On either side, fields and pastures were fading into the ochre hues of fall. The harvest was done, and figs lay drying on the rooftops.

Over Luke's shoulder hung a worn pouch, laden with ointments, instruments and salves, jars of sedative aconite, purging cassia, aloes tonic, anise to relieve colic, camphor and other medicines.

At a road fork, he took the southeasterly loop that avoided the deep crossing of the Kishon River, and thence traveled on north into the rolling homeland of Jesus.

ALONG THE WAY, at the towns of Shunem, Chesulloth, Japha and Sepphoris, he spoke with whom he met, the patriarchs in the village squares, the old smiths, potters, tanners, farmers flailing wheat on a threshing floor.

"Did you know him? Did you see him? What incidents do you recall?"

Most of them were old, their hair white, their eyes cased in wrinkles, their limbs thin and dry. But Luke found their memories

Safety Panel Urges Drivers Avoid Old 23

The Pickaway County Traffic Safety Committee today urged all motorists to avoid use of the old Route 23 north of Circleville as a safety measure.

Unnecessary risks are involved in use of the old road, the panel stated. A well-designed, safe entrance to Circleville is provided on the new by-pass, according to both State Highway officials and the county safety committee.

H. G. Eckhardt, engineer of the Ohio Department of Highways, Bureau of Safety, told the committee that "the old abandoned route entails considerable hazard and its use should be discouraged."

He suggested erecting a standard county road sign at the intersection north of town, and that special treatment of the intersection might well have the effect of providing a false sense of security to drivers who might elect to use it. This would be worse than no marking at all, he stated.

Darrell Hatfield, chairman of the county committee, said today, "The hazards are quite severe and use of the old road should be avoided if at all possible. Use of the old road should be avoided particularly at night and in a south-bound direction," Hatfield said.

He pointed out that there already have been many "close calls" at the intersection. "The clover leaf at Circleville should be used in preference to the north turnoff," Hatfield stated.

More Help Needed for Two Families Hit by Misfortune

Gifts, clothing and money are beginning to roll in for two area families which up to now faced a slim and unhappy Christmas.

According to Darrell Hatfield, executive secretary of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce, at noon today about $30 has been collected and seven or eight bags of bedding and clothing have been donated.

The families are those of Mr. and Mrs. Myron (Ed) Davis, 527 E. Union St. and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dingus, Route 5, Chillicothe.

The Davises are the parents of eight young children from 15 to 15 months. Their son, Charles Hurst, 21, is reported unconscious in White Cross Hospital, Columbus, the result of a motorcycle-truck accident at Court and Main Sts., December 5.

It was reported by the hospital earlier that Charles had regained consciousness, but the Davises report that Charles has not regained consciousness.

The Dinguses were routed from their home on Circleville, Route 2, December 9. A blaze destroyed the house and all furnishings and clothing, except for a coal stove and refrigerator.

HATFIELD SAID today that more youngsters are needed for the Davises, and additional help of all kinds is needed by the Dingus family. He said he would be glad to accept toys, money and small items for either family, but large items can be donated by calling Willard Carter, Route 2, 1778.

Dingus, who was ill all summer and has been unable to find work since regaining his health, was living in a house owned by Carter at the time of the fire. The Dinguses have five kiddies—all girls, ranging in age from 7 to baby Maxine, born just 19 days before the fire.

of Jesus vivid and undimmed. He carried a wax tablet, its sheets fastened with rings and held apart by metal studs to prevent blurring of the notes he made with his stylus.

HE DISCOUNTED the loose prattle, legends and hearsay. He relied, as he wrote later, only on those who "from the beginning were eyewitnesses and ministers of the word." Numerous points show his care to get corroboration. In Jerusalem where Jesus' kinsmen James headed the church, Luke earlier had opportunity to examine the family genealogical registry and talk to Temple officials. Many dependable sources there, and in Galilee, survived in Luke's time.

Now he came, at last, to a summit overlooking Nazareth, a sleepy hamlet of clean limestone houses, amid silvery olive orchards and feathery palms.

In a peaceful valley ringed by 15 rounded hills, flocks grazed in the clearings between groves of pomegranates. Part way up the highest hill, cupped in nature's sanctuary, was the town.

"The home of that boy...of my Savior!" Luke swallowed hard.

From the brow of the hill, the view was breathtaking. To the east rose the wooded heights of Mt. Tabor; to the south, the wide valley of Jexreel; to the north, the white clusters of other villages and snow-tipped Mt. Hermon; far to the west, the blue expanse of the great sea.

LUKE STROLLED through the winding lanes of the village, stopping to talk to ask questions, giving special attention to the aged, to a stooped, old tentmaker, a graybeard synagogue elder, a bent woman at the well.

Yea, full well, they remembered. Jesus had grown up here, a strong, intelligent boy, beloved by all. A thoughtful, astute one He was, too, and reverent. Indeed, they remembered.

Some townspeople, not yet 50, had been children with him. Studied there in that very synagogue, (Continued on Page Two)

Heavy Rains End Tomorrow

Rain continued to dominate the weather picture in Circleville and surrounding areas today.

For the last 24-hour period precipitation measured .56 inch here, giving the locality a soggy 2.35 inches surplus so far in December. In all 4.02 inches have fallen this month.

The steady downpours have pushed the Scioto River here to a whirling 12.47 feet. Flood stage is about 14 feet.

Today's forecast calls for the rain to end by tonight in wake of colder air which is scheduled to move in. Fair with moderate temperature is predicted tomorrow.

Low tonight is expected to range in the 30's. A high in the 50's is slated tomorrow.

French Soldier Ruled Guilty

Prison Awaits Slayer Of General, Wife

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—A French soldier of fortune, who said he is glad that it is all over, faces a long jail sentence for killing an American general and his wife who befriended him.

When Maurice Chavigny, 44, was convicted of second degree murder Thursday, he told newsmen "I feel relieved. I feel very well."

Chavigny displayed no emotion when he heard the verdict read that he was guilty of murdering retired Brig. Gen. Wilbur R. McReynolds, 64, and his wife, 61. The wife once lived in Zanesville.

Conviction carries a prison sentence of from 20 years to life. His attorney said he wanted to review the case before deciding whether to appeal. Sentencing will come in a few days.

The Frenchman had been a friend of the McReynolds since 1932. He had lived with them for 17 months. The McReynolds were shot to death in their fashionable home at St. Petersburg the night of April 3.

THE JURY deliberated nearly six hours in the fourth day of the trial. While the jury was out, Chavigny chatted with newspaper reporters. He said he plans to write a book about his experiences in the case.

The state based its case upon the testimony of witnesses who said they heard Chavigny shout in the McReynolds home the night of the shooting and the shouts were followed by pistol shots.

Chavigny testified that the McReynolds argued over Mrs. McReynolds' love for him, that the general shot his wife and that Chavigny killed the general.

Chavigny said of his relationship with Mrs. McReynolds: "It is a long, long love story."

Ousted Unions Get New Rap From AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON (AP)—The reform-minded AFL-CIO today acted to complete ouster of the Teamsters, Laundry and Bakery Workers unions from all echelons of the united labor movement.

The three unions already have been kicked out of the big federation on corruption charges.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, and William Schnitzler, secretary-treasurer, followed up this national-level expulsion by ordering the federation's more than 650 state and local groups to act immediately to sever relations with units of the three unions.

They ordered Teamsters locals expelled from state and local groups forthwith, and directed similar ouster of Bakery Union locals unless they affiliate within "a reasonable time" with a newly chartered reform organization, the American Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union.

Meany and Schnitzler said Laundry Workers Union locals similarly are ineligible to hold membership in AFL-CIO state and local groups. But they said such Laundry Workers locals as conform with AFL-CIO standards could apply for AFL-CIO charters, abandoning their parent union.

The AFL-CIO action directing ousters may cause the Teamsters to retaliate. James R. Hoffa, Teamsters president-elect and the boss of the truck union, had fired the first shot in a labor civil war. But he implied the Teamsters would always be ready to return any fire.

The man dropped two $100 bills into her kettle and disappeared.

Defense Shakeup Hinted; U. S. Said In Grave Danger

Next NATO Step: Parley with Reds

PARIS (AP)—Diplomatic officials said today the United States and its NATO allies will take the initiative in trying to set up a foreign ministers meeting with Russia. Opinion is divided on the likelihood of Russia's acceptance.

Some Western authorities think the Russians will lay down acceptable conditions, others that their terms may be too high and designed to block a meeting because the bid for it grew out of the NATO summit conference.

One thing seems certain. If an East-West conference is arranged in the next several months, it will result in consideration of much more than the problem of how to get disarmament discussions started again. The possibility of a broad agenda covering major world problems is already being talked about by British leaders.

The United States, which has been basically opposed to going into new East-West talks without evidence of change in Soviet policies, decided to take a risk in yielding to European demands for a dramatic new effort to end the armaments race and the cold war.

ONE DANGER is that the public will expect great achievements which may not be realized. Another is the possibility that pressure will be generated for a slowdown in equipping NATO's European defense forces with nuclear weapons.

The new effort to reach agreement with Russia and the plans for NATO rearmament represent two sides of a compromise. The United States got European agreement to take nuclear missiles when they are ready and the Europeans got American acceptance of a new meeting with Russia.

American officials were evidently surprised by the amount of resistance their plan for atomic stockpiles and missiles encountered at the summit meeting.

The opposition apparently sprang from two main sources:

Dayton Newspaper Closed by Strike

DAYTON (AP)—The Dayton Daily News was unable to publish today due to a strike of 64 mailers that also crippled press and stereotype department work forces.

Company spokesmen said that every effort was made to publish but that this was made impossible when members of some craft unions declined to cross picket lines.

The mailer contract with the company which publishes the afternoon News and the morning Journal-Herald in the same building expired at midnight Thursday.

1. European government officials felt that President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles had allowed American leadership of the free world to decline. British Prime Minister Macmillan and German Chancellor Adenauer said publicly that a bolder and more imaginative line of action was needed.

2. There is widespread fear in Europe of a devastating nuclear war. This has found various expressions in the European press.

ONE IS THAT in the age of long-range missiles the United States may be reluctant to risk its own destruction in order to aid its allies if Russia attacks. Another is that if Europe arms with modern weapons, Russia may be provoked to strike.

The President and Dulles met these problems chiefly by offering new assurances that the United States would stand by its Atlantic Treaty pledge to fight for its allies, would engage in closer consultation with them, would join in greater pooling of weapons and scientific findings and would be willing to talk again with the Russians in a foreign minister's conference.

The extent to which they succeeded in restoring American leadership of the Western world can be measured better in coming months.

Two Injured As Cars Hit On Route 23

Two persons were injured in a two-car collision on Route 23 about two miles north of South Bloomfield at 2 p. m. yesterday.

Eda A. Waldren, 73, McArthur, suffered severe cuts and abrasions of the face and left shoulder and possible internal injuries.

She was a passenger in an auto driven by William C. Neff, 45, Columbus. He was treated for a deep scalp cut. Both were taken to Berger Hospital.

The other car was operated by Gary C. Tedrow, 18, Ashville. He was not injured.

DEPUTY Sheriff Robert Hoover said Tedrow, driving south on Route 23, observed Neff's car turning out of the northbound traffic lane to cross over to the southbound lane. Tedrow said he attempted to stop but skidded into the other vehicle as it continued pulling into the southbound lane.

Neff told Deputy Hoover that he saw Tedrow's car but thought he had enough time to make the turn. Both cars were heavily damaged the deputy said.

Ike's Next Task: Sell U. S. on NATO Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower returned to Washington today after a week's trip to Paris where 15 NATO allies drafted a blueprint for coping with the Communists in the missiles age.

The 15-nation NATO conference agreed on plans to equip European bases with American 1500-mile range missiles and nuclear warheads. This was linked with arrangements to keep the way open for fresh talks with Russia on disarmament.

Summing up NATO Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium said:

"We have established this policy line: (1) the will to defend ourselves; (2) the will to talk."

Eisenhower said he was "confident that the American people will endorse and support the decisions made."

In some respects the President appeared to have his work cut out for him.

Eisenhower must go to Congress for authority to implement some of the pledges made at Paris. And already there is grumbling among some congressional Democrats that the Paris meeting was "inconclusive at best."

A 3500-WORD communique issued Thursday by the 15 government chiefs of the Atlantic Pact nations made three major points:

It deplored Soviet behavior pledged to talk softly and carry a big stick and declared NATO now had a "new significance" stretching worldwide in scientific and economic fields as well as the military.

It appeared to officials that Eisenhower's major difficulty would

Senator Seeks 'Streamlining' Of Pentagon

'Top Secret' Report Cites 'Weaknesses' In Armed Services

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) said today a Senate probe of missile and satellite programs should result in a drastic overhaul of the Defense Department to "bring order out of chaos."

He said the top military command machinery "must be simplified and streamlined" to enable the nation to push ahead of Russia in the race for control of outer space and in development of long range missiles.

Criticism of the defense organization also was voiced by two other senators, Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Barrett (R-Wy.), both members of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee which has been investigating U. S. missile-satellite programs.

The Washington Post said today it had learned the top-secret Gaither Report recommended, among other things, a "sweeping reorganization of the Pentagon command system and of the current roles and missions of the armed services."

The Post story added that the report, prepared by a board headed by H. Rowan Gaither Jr., former Ford Foundation president, pictured the nation as being "in the gravest danger in its history."

The White House has called the document highly classified, and has declined to comment on its contents. The report is based on a study made for the Office of Defense Mobilization and the National Security Council.

The Gaither report "pictures the nation moving in frightening course to the status of a second-class power."

"To prevent what otherwise appears to be an inevitable catastrophe," the newspaper said, "the Gaither report urgently calls for an enormous increase in military spending, from now through 1970, and for any other costly, radical measures of first and second priority."

To meet the Soviet military threat, the newspaper said the report recommends:

1. "A rapidly rising military budget through 1970, reaching in the years 1960 and 1961 a peak outlay of about eight billion dollars a year in additional expenditures over and above the current 38 billion defense outlay. Another five billion a year, for several years, for a civilian shelter program, is recommended on a priority basis."

2. "A sweeping reorganization of the Pentagon command system (Continued on Page Two)"

Conviction carries a prison sentence of from 20 years to life. His attorney said he wanted to review the case before deciding whether to appeal. Sentencing will come in a few days.

The Frenchman had been a friend of the McReynolds since 1932. He had lived with them for 17 months. The McReynolds were shot to death in their fashionable home at St. Petersburg the night of April 3.

THE JURY deliberated nearly six hours in the fourth day of the trial. While the jury was out, Chavigny chatted with newspaper reporters. He said he plans to write a book about his experiences in the case.

The state based its case upon the testimony of witnesses who said they heard Chavigny shout in the shooting and the shouts were followed by pistol shots.

Chavigny testified that the McReynolds argued over Mrs. McReynolds' love for him, that the general shot his wife and that Chavigny killed the general.

Chavigny said of his relationship with Mrs. McReynolds: "It is a long, long love story."

Ousted Unions Get New Rap From AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON (AP)—The reform-minded AFL-CIO today acted to complete ouster of the Teamsters, Laundry and Bakery Workers unions from all echelons of the united labor movement.

The three unions already have been kicked out of the big federation on corruption charges.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, and William Schnitzer, secretary-treasurer, followed up this national-level expulsion by ordering the federation's more than 650 state and local groups to act immediately to sever relations with units of the three unions.

They ordered Teamsters locals expelled from state and local groups forthwith, and directed similar ouster of Bakery Union locals unless they affiliate within "a reasonable time" with a newly chartered reform organization, the American Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union.

Meany and Schnitzer said Laundry Workers Union locals similarly are ineligible to hold membership in AFL-CIO state and local groups. But they said such Laundry Workers locals as conform with AFL-CIO standards could apply for AFL-CIO charters, abandoning their parent union.

The AFL-CIO action directing ousters may cause the Teamsters to retaliate. James R. Hoffa, Teamsters president-elect and boss of the truck union, had said the Teamsters "never would fire the first shot in a labor civil war." But he implied the Teamsters would always be ready to return any fire.

On her way to headquarters with the kettle Thursday night, she wished a cheery "Merry Christmas" to office workers hurrying for home. A man stepped up and asked: "Have the kettles done very well today?"

"No, I'm afraid the weather is too bad," replied Mrs. Barbara Vinuova.

The man dropped two $100 bills into her kettle and disappeared.

Defense Shakeup Hinted; U. S. Said In Grave Danger

Next NATO Step: Parley with Reds

PARIS (AP)—Diplomatic officials said today the United States and its NATO allies will take the initiative in trying to "set up a foreign ministers meeting with Russia. Opinion is divided on the likelihood of Russia's acceptance."

Some Western authorities think the Russians will lay down acceptable conditions, others that their terms may be too high and designed to block a meeting because the bid for it grew out of the NATO summit conference.

One thing seems certain. If an East-West conference is arranged in the next several months, it will result in consideration of much more than the problem of how to get disarmament discussions started again. The possibility of a broad agenda covering major world problems is already being talked about by British leaders.

The United States, which has been basically opposed to going into new East-West talks without evidence of change in Soviet policies, decided to take a risk in yielding to European demands for a dramatic new effort to end the armaments race and the cold war.

ONE DANGER is that the public will expect great achievements which may not be realized. Another is the possibility that pressure will be generated for a slowdown in equipping NATO's European defense forces with nuclear weapons.

The new effort to reach agreement with Russia and the plans for NATO rearmament represent two sides of a compromise. The United States got European agreement to take nuclear missiles when they are ready and the Europeans got American acceptance of a new meeting with Russia.

American officials were evidently surprised by the amount of resistance their plan for atomic stockpiles and missiles encountered at the summit meeting.

The opposition apparently sprang from two main sources:

Dayton Newspaper Closed by Strike

DAYTON (AP)—The Dayton Daily News was unable to publish today due to a strike of 64 mailers that also crippled press and stereotype department work forces.

Company spokesmen said that every effort was made to publish but that this was made impossible when members of some craft unions declined to cross picket lines.

The mailer contract with the company which publishes the afternoon News and the morning Journal-Herald in the same building expired at midnight Thursday.

A 3500-WORD communique issued Thursday by the 15 government chiefs of the Atlantic Pact nations made three major points: It deplored Soviet behavior pledged to talk softly and carry a big stick and declared NATO now had a "new significance" stretching worldwide in scientific and economic fields as well as the military.

It appeared to officials that Eisenhower's major difficulty would

1. European government officials felt that President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles had allowed American leadership of the free world to decline. British Prime Minister Macmillan and German Chancellor Adenauer said publicly that a bolder and more imaginative line of action was needed.

2. There is widespread fear in Europe of a devastating nuclear war. This has found various expressions in the European press.

ONE IS THAT in the age of long-range missiles the United States may be reluctant to risk its own destruction in order to aid its allies if Russia attacks. Another is that if Europe arms with modern weapons, Russia may be provoked to strike.

The President and Dulles met these problems chiefly by offering new assurances that the United States would stand by its Atlantic Treaty pledge to fight for its allies, would engage in closer consultation with them, would join in greater pooling of weapons and scientific findings and would be willing to talk again with the Russians in a foreign minister's conference.

The extent to which they succeeded in restoring American leadership of the Western world can be measured better in coming months.

Senator Seeks 'Streamlining' Of Pentagon

'Top Secret' Report Cites 'Weaknesses' In Armed Services

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) said today a Senate probe of missile and satellite programs should result in a drastic overhaul of the Defense Department to "bring order out of chaos."

He said the top military command machinery "must be simplified and streamlined" to enable the nation to push ahead of Russia in the race for control of outer space and in development of long range missiles.

Criticism of the defense organization also was voiced by two other senators, Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Barrett (R-Wy.), both members of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee which has been investigating U. S. missile-satellite programs.

The Washington Post said today it had learned the top-secret Gaither Report recommended, among other things, a "sweeping reorganization of the Pentagon command system and of the current roles and missions of the armed services."

The Post story added that the report, prepared by a board headed by H. Rowan Gaither Jr., former Ford Foundation president, pictured the nation as being "in the gravest danger in its history."

The White House has called the document highly classified, and has declined to comment on its contents. The report is based on a study made for the Office of Defense Mobilization and the National Security Council.

The Gaither report "pictures the nation moving in frightening course to the status of a second-class power."

"To prevent what otherwise appears to be an inevitable catastrophe," the newspaper said, "the Gaither report urgently calls for an enormous increase in military spending, from now through 1970, and for any other costly, radical measures of first and second priority."

To meet the Soviet military threat, the newspaper said the report recommends:

1. "A rapidly rising military budget through 1970, reaching in the years 1960 and 1961 a peak outlay of about eight billion dollars a year in additional expenditures over and above the current 38 billion defense outlay. Another five billion a year, for several years, for a civilian shelter program, is recommended on a priority basis."

2. "A sweeping reorganization of the Pentagon command system (Continued on Page Two)

Ike's Next Task: Sell U. S. on NATO Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower returned to Washington today after a week's trip to Paris where 15 NATO allies drafted a blueprint for coping with the Communists in the missiles age.

The 15-nation NATO conference agreed on plans to equip European bases with American 1500-mile range missiles and nuclear warheads. This was linked with arrangements to keep the way open for fresh talks with Russia on disarmament.

Summing up NATO Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium said:

"We have established this policy line: (1) the will to defend ourselves; (2) the will to talk."

Eisenhower said he was "confident that the American people will endorse and support the decisions made."

In some respects the President appeared to have his work cut out for him.

Eisenhower must go to Congress for authority to implement some of the pledges made at Paris. And already there is grumbling among some congressional Democrats that the Paris meeting was "inconclusive at best."

A 3500-WORD communique issued Thursday by the 15 government chiefs of the Atlantic Pact nations made three major points: It deplored Soviet behavior pledged to talk softly and carry a big stick and declared NATO now had a "new significance" stretching worldwide in scientific and economic fields as well as the military.

It appeared to officials that Eisenhower's major difficulty would be in trying to get congressional approval for more money, greater sharing of atomic data and lower trade barriers.

Eisenhower and his chief aide Secretary of State Dulles will have an opportunity Monday to lay their case before the nation.

They are scheduled to make a half-hour report at 8:30 p. m. (EST) Monday over nationwide radio-television facilities of all the major networks.

Officials considered it unlikely, however, that the President would divulge in much detail what he expects of Congress.

Meantime Dulles arranged to stop off in Madrid for talks about missile bases and other matters with Spain's President Francisco Franco.

Stock Mart Trading Is Mixed Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was trading in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of fractions to around a point were the general rule for key stocks and there was little in the way of emphatic group action.

Wall Streeters professed disappointment that the Federal Reserve Board had not taken some action such as reducing reserve requirements of members banks after the close Thursday. Meanwhile there were crosscurrents in the business news which gave no plain sign of which way the economic wind was blowing.

Armco Steel and National Supply were ahead as financial quarters anticipated announcement of their merger plan. When the news was announced each stock shaded its earlier price.

Chrysler was off around two points.

Gainers of around a point or better included Gulf Oil, North American Aviation and Johnson & Johnson.

Caterpillar lost more than a point. U. S. Steel dropped a major fraction and Youngstown Sheet a bit less. Bethlehem was firm and Republic Steel ahead a fraction.

Chesapeake & Ohio, Southern Railway, New York Central and Baltimore & Ohio won small gains.

U. S. government bonds drifted lower.

Teays Valley Board Meets, Pays Salaries

The newly appointed Teays Valley board of education last night held its first monthly meeting. In addition to regular business, the individual school superintendents reported and the board had a general discussion of overall problems.

The monthly payroll was paid and a breakdown of teacher's salaries are as follows: monthly teacher payroll, $24,985.27; total teacher payroll, $299,823.28.

Ashville receives the highest amount of this total — $95,543.28, followed by Walnut with $87,230; Harrison, $32,680; Madison, $14,270, and Scioto, $99,900.

Statistically the Teays Valley district has 75.5 teachers with an average yearly salary of $3,971. Ashville has 23.6 teachers and an average income of $4,049. Walnut follows with 21.2 instructors and an average salary of $4,114; Harrison, 8.6 teachers with an average salary of $3,823; Madison, 4.1 teachers with an average income of $3,480, and Scioto has 18 teachers with an average income of $3,885.

Living Cost Up Again in November

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today that living costs rose again substantially in November. A month earlier, they had leveled off after a steady 13-month climb.

The November rise of four-tenths of 1 per cent means a pay, increase for one million workers effective Jan. 1. Most of them, mainly in the steel and aluminum industries, will get a five-cent-an-hour boost under labor contracts tying wages to price levels.

The November increase brought the Labor Department's living cost index to 121.6 per cent of the 1947-49 average. This is 3.2 per cent higher than a year ago.

Ewan Clague, labor statistics commissioner, attributed the November rise primarily to higher prices for new model automobiles, clothing and services generally.

Without the auto price hikes, Clague said, living costs would have risen only slightly if at all in November. The November new car prices were 11.5 per cent above those in October.

Prices of food declined by three-tenths of 1 per cent, reflecting seasonal declines in prices of pork, fresh fruits and eggs.

Clague said living costs for December will show little change and that he anticipates a slight decline in January.

2 Grants Given Nod For Columbus Housing

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $4,470,254 loan and a $2,949,339 capital grant to Columbus, Ohio, were announced today by the Urban Renewal Administration.

The money will be used to aid in clearance and redevelopment of the city's Goadale area principally for residential use. Plans also call for an expressway which will be part of the city's inner belt system, a playground and expansion of existing church and school sites.

with the old chazzan filling them with the law and the prophets.

He was a quick and kindly one. But ah, what befell him, woe upon woe.

There, just a bit down the street, is the old house and carpentry shop where he worked with his father, carving plowshares, yokes and axes. You could hear the aze and hatchet all day. They dragged timber from yonder hills.

Luke, the only gospel writer who deals with Jesus' childhood, absorbed it all. He would write:

"And the child grew and became strong, filled with wisdom, and the favor of God was upon him."

HE KNEW beforehand that Joseph had long been dead, but many kinsmen of the old carpenter and of Mary still lived in the town. From them, perhaps, Luke learned of the trip to Jerusalem.

When Jesus was 12, at the age to become a "Son of the Torah," and make the thrice-yearly festival pilgrimages, Joseph and Mary took him with them in a large party to the Passover feast, to see for the first time the great Temple.

Its snowy marble towers, walled terraces and gold-embossed gates shimmered high above the city. The series of huge concentric courts, throbbing with voices and music of harps and flutes, could contain 210,000 people.

On the return trip, when the Galilee group halted after a day's journey, possibly at Sichein, Jesus could not be found. His parents returned to the city, searching three days before finding him.

There, in a cluster of learned rabbis at the Temple, he sat listening, asking questions and amazing all with his understanding and answers. As Luke learned, the boy's mother, half relieved, half reproachful, hurried to him, saying:

"Son, why have you treated us so? Behold, your father and I have been looking for you anxiously."

JESUS, apparently in the dawning of an irresistible necessity to give Himself to His divine cause, said: "How is it that you sought me? Did you not know that I must be in my Father's house?"

The family returned to Nazareth and, as Luke ascertained, "Jesus increased in wisdom and in stature, and in favor with God and man."

Luke, however, still had not unearthed the crux of Jesus' arrival among men, the seed of it all, the supernatural derivations. If he could only speak with Him directly... or with Mary!

It was possible that she still lived. After the crucifixion, she had gone to reside with the then young apostle, John. His home was in Capernaum. Luke set his feet toward that place, wishing, wondering...

3. "A much increased preparation to fight limited wars—seen as the more likely kind of conflict, especially in the Middle East and Asia, provided the massive offensive capability is created."

The Post said these key recommendations were among those presented to President Eisenhower at an extraordinary session of the National Security Council on Nov. 7, four days after the launching of Russia's second earth satellite.

The newspaper said Eisenhower indicated then, and in later conversations, "a nagging fear that the American people would balk at paying the bill" for the recommended outlays.

Mansfield the assistant Democratic leader in the Senate said he believes the preparedness subcommittee will develop "some responsible recommendations."

The subcommittee, headed by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) recessed its hearings last Tuesday for the holidays. It will resume work in early January.

Barrett said he expects some major changes in the Pentagon organization to speed missile and satellite development. Kefauver said he regarded the present defense organization as "confusing and bureaucratic."

Meanwhile one of the nation's top military leader Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, said the nation must push both its satellite and missile programs without letting either crowd out the other.

As to the problem of which service should develop a particular weapon Taylor suggested the task be assigned to the branch which "appears to have the greatest probability of success in the shortest time."

Government Facing Setback In Cutting Wheat Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government faced a setback today in its efforts to get rid of a big wheat surplus.

An official forecast Thursday on production of winter wheat next year indicated the combined production of winter and spring bushels. That would be the biggest wheat crop since 1952 and would be 150 million to 200 million bushels more than markets expected to require.

The extra grain would move into surplus stockpiles. The extra supplies are expected to be reduced by about 100 million bushels this year because of cutback in production under controls and the soil bank land retirement program.

The Agriculture Department's crop reporting board said the 1958 winter wheat crop looks as if it will be 906 million bushels. A corresponding 28 per cent increase in spring wheat—which will be seeded next spring—would put production considerably above prospective market needs.

Two things account for the prospective increase in production. One is a remarkable improvement in moisture supply conditions in the Great Plains area. The other is a much smaller participation in the soil bank program by growers.

"Seldom has a winter wheat crop been blessed with the favorable conditions experienced so far by the 1958 crop," the board said.

Office Parties Get Nod from Many Firms

Policing Increases
To Curb Drinking, Employe Flirtations

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Many executives believe the office parties at Christmas time improve employee morale. There is an increasing tendency to police the parties, to watch the drinking and discourage flirtations.

Even so, when this year's joy fests are all over, there'll probably be as many employees as every facing trouble at home, embarrassment next week at having told the boss off this week, red faces over remembrance of familiarity with other employees — and inevitably, some aftereffects of highway accidents.

Insults to executives and co-workers aren't the only drawbacks mentioned by the critics. Some employees complain that top executives look down their noses at worker manners, and this leaves resentment long after Christmas has passed.

Champions of the once a year flings hold that a little relaxation, jollity and feeling of being one big family can be a good thing for the business.

A number of outsiders prosper. Liquor dealers add to their sales totals. So do caterers and specialty food shops supplying refreshments for parties when held in offices of plants.

Two out of three of some 1,000 firms queried by the National Office Management Assn. of Willow Grove, Pa., report they held parties for employees last year and the same number expect to this year. Half of the firms will furnish liquor free. But where the parties are held on company property half will be dry.

Of those giving parties two-thirds will pick up the entire tab, one sixth will expect employees to bear the whole expense and the rest ask the employees to share part of the cost.

Half of those opposed to parties say too much liquor causes trouble both at the office and at home. Sex problems are reported by 15 per cent. Some call the whole idea just a waste of time — one executive saying, "My employees are paid to work."

Quotas Urged For Carry-Out Beer Permits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Liquor Control Board Thursday was urged to restore quotas on the number of beer and wine carry-out permits it issues in the state.

R. W. Kilbourne of Columbus, counsel for the Ohio State Package Dealers' Assn., and Dorman Brumfield of Toledo, president of the Northwest Ohio Package Dealers, called for the quota at the fourth and final public hearing required annually by statute.

Kilbourne predicted the state would be flooded with carry-out stores unless quotas were restored.

Liquor Department records show the state has approximately 13,500 carry-out stores and that 1,300 applications for new carry-out permits are on file.

Carry-out dealers have appealed to the Ohio Supreme Court from lower court decisions upholding a new regulation lifting quotas on carry-out permits. The new regulation maintains quotas on hard liquor and other type permits.

Flash snapshots have become the thing. With flashbulb and the battery holder it is possible to take pictures of all that goes on in your home over the holidays, or any other time.

The question that is always asked is "what is the proper exposure?" If you have a box camera your exposure will be correct if you stand from 10 to 12 feet from your subject. This is for black and white film. For color film you should move up to about six feet. This is for average conditions.

For those of you using a slide or 35mm camera there is no set rule for exposure. The best advice that I can give is to save the instructions that come with the film or flashbulbs. All the information that you need is printed on the little folder that comes with all color film and most black and white film.

Don't overlook the new color films. It is just as easy to have full color pictures as it is black and white. The new Kodacolor type CU film is for both flash and daylight. With a white bulb and this film all the natural holiday colors may be recorded with just the snap of a shutter. Indoors and out, all on the same roll of film without the fuss and bother of filters and blue bulbs. When you have the film processed you will have full color pictures.

And Dad, why don't you get in the picture? Let Junior or Sister take some of the shots. It's so easy and they will get a big bang out of it.

Ohio Businessmen Get Double Tax Deduction

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service Thursday said Ohio businessmen who pay their federal taxes on the accrual basis may deduct assessments made by Ohio on personal property used in business from their 1958 federal income tax twice.

In previous years the state tax was assessed Jan. 1, but starting this year it will be Dec. 31.

White House Christmas Tree To Spark Global Observance

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A towering Christmas tree on the south side of the White House is to spark a simultaneous hailing of peace on earth to men of good will around the world.

The ceremony, launching the capital's Christmas Pageant of Peace, which started four years ago as an international gesture carrying out the devout theme of hope, will signal the illuminating of similar community trees all over the nation and in our embassies and military posts abroad.

Participating in the pageant, set for Dec. 23 through 31, will be representatives of the 48 states and five territories. So far some 63 other nations, including the Iron Curtain countries of Rumania and Czechoslovakia, have agreed to take part. Most will send trees to be placed along "The Pathway to Peace" leading to the stage where holiday activities will take place. Non-Christian countries are sending a symbol in "keeping with the basic spirit of world fellowship."

Charles E. Wilson, head of President Eisenhower's "people to people" program, is chairman of a newly set-up National Citizens Participation Committee designed to promote and help coordinate the goodwill activities around the world. A Community Christmas Observances committee was also set up this year to urge mayors and religious and civic leaders of some 500 cities of 25,000 or more population to light their community trees along with lighting of "National Community Christmas Tree."

During the nine-day pageant representatives of Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox churches will give services in their different faiths.

Until four years ago, a growing tree was used on the White House lawn. Since 1954 the tree has been donated by one of the states. This year, a stately spruce is being sent by Minnesota. More than 8,000 lights and hundreds of dazzling ornaments are used to decorate the national tree.

Throughout the season, there'll be music by the Marine Band and Chorus and other choral groups, including the famous All-Navy Male Chorus of Pensacola, Fla.

A life-sized Nativity scene, a traditional Yule log-burning, a Youth Corner, with exhibits, games and folk dancing, as well as a Santa Claus, will be other features. A 40-foot mechanized sled with eight life-sized reindeer, operated like a merry-go-round, will accommodate 50 youngsters at a time. Eight live reindeer from the National Zoological Gardens will be housed in pens behind the White House.

Most animals, with the exception of man, are color blind.

How much office parties are to blame for traffic accidents is unknown. But they are likely to contribute to what the American Assn. of Motor Vehicle Administrators of Washington calls a chief cause of driving mishaps: impairment of alertness by drowsiness, fatigue, alcohol or travel monotony.

Americans Own Big Debt

Total debt, public and private, of the United States is $515.5 billion, the omniscient Census Bureau announces. That divides out to $3,014 per capita, not counting $300 billion of corporate and other business debt.

While the figure itself may not mean much to the average reader, it is clarified by the further finding that $188.5 billion has been added to the debt in the past 11 years. The debt is not only huge but is accelerating rapidly as government activities expand and inflation boosts costs.

The private mortgage debt, largely guaranteed by the U. S. government, and the consumer debt have both increased by large percentages. The omens are that the debt structure of the country will continue to increase as the years pass.

There are two brakes to apply. At the governmental level unnecessary spending can be reduced to the point of minimizing borrowing. As old debts are paid off, the obligations will shrink. At the private level individuals can pull in their horns until their debts, too, begin to shrink.

Whether either course will be adopted is doubtful. Governmental units constantly find emergencies that require the borrowing of capital. Encouragement for private spending then follows. If private spending lags, the total national product from which taxes are derived declines and government revenues shrink. Then government debt rises faster than ever.

The nation is in this situation. If anyone knows how to break out of it, it is obvious that his advice is not being followed.

In Defense of the Iron Horse

By Hal Boyle

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP)—To several generations of Americans the most romantic sound they heard in their growing years was the sound of a train whistle crying in the night.

It was a lonely sound, throbbing through the darkness, stirring youthful imaginations to dream of travel in far places. To one who remembers that sound well, it seems a shame that a new generation of kids has grown up without knowing it. The raucous hoot of a diesel horn holds none of the magic of the old steam engine's cry, wailing across the prairies, echoing in the hills, sending little shivers up the spine of all who heard it and felt a desire to be aboard a train hurtling through the blackness to some place distant and new.

It was bad enough to see the passing of the steam engine. But now there are mutterings that the era of long-distance passenger travel by train is ending.

You can now hear predictions, even among professional railroad men, that in another 25 years the pullman conductor will be as out of date as the cigar store Indian.

Frankly, I don't believe it, and my hero of the week is A. E.

Stoddard, president of the Union Pacific. He answers those doom-criers with the statement that his railroad "has no intention of going out of the passenger business."

The main reason I feel that the iron horse won't go the way of the stage coach or the Mississippi River steamboat—that is, in its role as a passenger carrier—is because it really hasn't been outmoded.

The airplane, as a means of travel, is fast losing its original glamor and becoming just another efficient means of mass transportation.

You can't beat it if you have to make a long journey in a hurry. You get there faster, but you're bored on the way, and you arrive tired. You have a deepdown uneasy feeling that only an angel belongs up there, and you know you're no angel.

Take a long trip by car today on our modern super highways and what happens? You see an endless ribbon of concrete before you, and very little else. You eat food almost as standardized as the gasoline your car consumes. The restaurants and filling stations look alike, and too often they serve the same menu—one for the car, one for you.

But take a long trip by train, and what happens? Well, I did that this week for the first time in many months. I rode here from New York in a special train carrying guests to the launching of the S.S. Brasil, a new Moore-McCormack luxury liner.

The trip took nearly 35 leisurely hours, but there wasn't a boring moment. The great panorama of America, the tremendous spectacle of varied faces and changing landscapes, rolled by outside the train window by day.

And at night, lying in my berth I kept the shade up until after midnight, watching the small towns swim by, the isolated country churches with small spires gleaming in moonlight above the dreamless dead in their graveyards, the snow giving way to greenery, the bare bough to the palm tree and the hanging Spanish moss.

It came to me that I hadn't really felt the impact of my native land in quite this mystic way for a long, long time, and as the wheels of the iron horse went clunky-click on the steel rails I had a grateful feeling.

Red Schools Lack Humanities

By George Sokolsky

The assumption which is becoming current in this country as an aftermath of the Sputnik that more boys and girls, proportionately, go to school in Russia than in the United States, is without foundation. However, the Russians do not suffer from progressive education and from hoop-la courses which represent mere attendance rather than tending to business.

John Chipman and Nicholas J. Grant have made a study of "Metallurgical Education in the U.S.S.R.," concerning which they prepared a statement for the Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee of which Sen. Lyndon Johnson is Chairman and Edwin L. Weiss, special counsel. From the report it is clear that "educational breadth is sacrificed to specialized training" and that cannot be recommended.

Special schools exist for special subjects, but here no school is as concentrated upon one subject as a similar Russian school would be. There the student coming up from about 10 years of elementary education has had three years each of chemistry and physics and has had mathematics every year. About 80 per cent have studied English; the remainder mostly German or French.

Except for the study of the history of the Communist Party for one year, political economy for two years and philosophy for one year, they spend little time on the humanities. The field is so specialized that after graduation, the student can have no choice as to his career. However, in the present development of Soviet Russia anyone who can get a diploma can get a job.

The students have a 5½-day week, eight hours a day at school, about half lectures and half laboratory. Most students receive a subsistence wage which starts at 30 rubles a month and goes up to 1,000 rubles a month for a graduate student. There are dormitories and cafeterias. As an example, I cite the courses given at the Lenin Polytechnic Institute, Leningrad:

Mathematics; Physics: Theoretical Mechanics; General Chemistry; foreign language (English or German required); History of Party, Political Economics, Philosophy; Analytical Chemistry; Mineralogy, Crystallography; Physical Chemistry; Descriptive Geometry and Mechanical Drawing; Testing Materials; Machine Components; Hydraulics; Blowing and Pneumatic Engines; Electric Technology; Theory of Metallurgical Processes; Metallurgical Furnaces and Automation; Metallurgy and Testing.

Physical training is required for all students.

When this Russian program is analyzed carefully, it is overspecialized and while it may provide excellent technicians and engineers for steel mills and similar metallurgical enterprises, the intellectual training is extraordinarily narrow. Whereas our engineers are also educated for citizenship and to take an active part in public affairs, it would seem that theirs are proletarianized almost from the beginning. Messrs. Chipman and Grant wrote in their report:

"In the first three years, the two systems might be considered fairly comparable, but in the fourth and fifth years the Russian students study subjects and engage in industrial activities which we will not impose upon our students, even in the so-called practice schools or co-operative programs. Much of the training in these years is on subjects which we expect our students to learn after they have graduated and taken jobs in industry. These last two years are, in fact, training for industry rather than education, and this is a road which most of our better schools have avoided. There can be little doubt that the Russian students are well trained for the specific industry they intend to enter."

The Russians are training each student with a specific goal in view; we educate men on the basis that freedom of choice is essential to civilization. This, in a word, is the difference between the two societies: one is Spartan; the other Christian.

For the vast variety of clubs and societies in an American university, a Russian technical school has two social organizations: the trade union group, sponsored by the Ministry of Higher Education, and the Young Communist League. Those who join the latter society immediately come under party discipline and if they remain within the party, their opportunities for advancement will be greater, but so will be their social responsibilities and obligations.

One important point made by Messrs. Chipman and Grant needs to be repeated here: "Laboratory equipment for instruction in metallurgy in the Russian schools is superior to that in our own. This is true in respect to the quantity of good equipment available and the diversity and advanced nature of the laboratory experiments for which equipment is provided."

Keep Away from Ill Tots

By German N. Dundesen, M.D.

Nursing a young son or daughter with a communicable disease is only half of the homemaker's job. Besides caring for the patient, you must protect other members of the family from catching the illness.

Anyone with a serious contagious disease must be isolated from the rest of the household. Admittedly, this is a difficult task in most homes, but protection of the others is essential. You don't want the whole family sick in bed, do you?

Keep the patient in a room by himself or, if this is impossible, place a screen around his bed.

When you enter the sickroom, put on a wrap-around housedress backwards. This can serve as a private gown. When you leave, hang it near the door, inside the patient's room.

Launder the patient's pajamas and linen frequently. Keep them separate from the rest of the family's belongings. This is especially important as far as washclothes, combs, toothbrushes—anything that comes in contact with the patient's face or mouth—are concerned.

Advise the patient to use paper tissues instead of handkerchiefs so that you can burn them.

Of course you should wash your hands and face thoroughly each time you enter and leave the sickroom. And be sure to scrub them with a brush when you empty a bedpan.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—This week's NATO meeting in Paris demonstrated—if it did nothing else—the profound change which occurred in the world in 1957.

This was the 22nd meeting of the 15 NATO nations' foreign ministers. Its importance was underscored by the presence of heads of state. The nations wound up still partners. But like the other meetings before it, this one produced neither miracles nor sensations.

However, it was in this year that Russia showed—with its Sputniks and missiles—that from now on no corner of the earth will be invulnerable to war. The realization of this spread a change over the face of NATO.

Until now the United States needed its European allies for two basic reasons:

1. Because they were the core of the noncommunist world. Without them this country would be isolated and have meager chance of eventual survival.

2. As a first line of defense for the United States. This country's bombers, using bases on allied soil and backed by allied armies, could hope to pin down a war on the opposite side of the Atlantic from the United States.

And, because they were the closest to Russia and might be overrun, this country's allies needed and wanted all the military help they could get from the United States.

But with the coming of the missile age this country became as close to Russia as its European partners. In fact, the Russians could fire over the heads of those partners to hit the United States. So now overseas bases on allied territory—this time for American missiles—became an asset even more precious than the bomber bases. Those bases would be just as much a protection for this country as for Europe.

It's no wonder—with this fact so obvious—that the allies at the NATO meeting began throwing their weight around, forcing the United States to listen to what they wanted and didn't want.

This country still retains NATO leadership but its influence has been lessened since Russia launched its Sputniks.

All 15 allied states agreed—because this country insisted—that the NATO countries should accept stockpiles of American nuclear weapons and missiles bases. But

Americans Own Big Debt

Total debt, public and private, of the United States is $515.5 billion, the omniscient Census Bureau announces. That divides out to $3,014 per capita, not counting $300 billion of corporate and other business debt.

While the figure itself may not mean much to the average reader, it is clarified by the further finding that $188.5 billion has been added to the debt in the past 11 years. The debt is not only huge but is accelerating rapidly as government activities expand and inflation boosts costs.

The private mortgage debt, largely guaranteed by the U. S. government, and the consumer debt have both increased by large percentages. The omens are that the debt structure of the country will continue to increase as the years pass.

There are two brakes to apply. At the governmental level unnecessary spending can be reduced to the point of minimizing borrowing. As old debts are paid off, the obligations will shrink. At the private level individuals can pull in their horns until their debts, too, begin to shrink.

Whether either course will be adopted is doubtful. Governmental units constantly find emergencies that require the borrowing of capital. Encouragement for private spending then follows. If private spending lags, the total national product from which taxes are derived declines and government revenues shrink. Then government debt rises faster than ever.

The nation is in this situation. If anyone knows how to break out of it, it is obvious that his advice is not being followed.

In Defense of the Iron Horse

By Hal Boyle

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP) — To several generations of Americans the most romantic sound they heard in their growing years was the sound of a train whistle crying in the night.

It was a lonely sound, throbbing through the darkness, stirring youthful imaginations to dream of travel in far places.

To one who remembers that sound well, it seems a shame that a new generation of kids has grown up without knowing it. The raucous hoot of a diesel horn holds none of the magic of the old steam engine's cry, wailing across the prairies, echoing in the hills, sending little shivers up the spine of all who heard it and felt a desire to be aboard a train hurtling through the blackness to some place distant and new.

It was bad enough to see the passing of the steam engine. But now there are mutterings that the era of long-distance passenger travel by train is ending.

You can now hear predictions, even among professional railroad men, that in another 25 years the pullman conductor will be as out of date as the cigar store Indian.

Frankly, I don't believe it, and my hero of the week is A. E.

Stoddard, president of the Union Pacific. He answers those doom-criers with the statement that his railroad "has no intention of going out of the passenger business."

The main reason I feel that the iron horse won't go the way of the stage coach or the Mississippi River steamboat—that is, in its role as a passenger carrier—is because it really hasn't been outmoded.

The airplane, as a means of travel, is fast losing its original glamor and becoming just another efficient means of mass transportation.

You can't beat it if you have to make a long journey in a hurry. You get there faster, but you're bored on the way, and you arrive tired. You have a deepdown uneasy feeling that only an angel belongs up there, and you know you're no angel.

Take a long trip by car today on our modern super highways and what happens? You see an endless ribbon of concrete before you, and very little else. You eat food almost as standardized as the gasoline your car consumes. The restaurants and filling stations look alike, and too often they serve the same menu—one for the car, one for you.

But take a long trip by train, and what happens? Well, I did that this week for the first time in many months. I rode here from New York in a special train carrying guests to the launching of the S.S. Brasil, a new Moore-McCormack luxury liner.

The trip took nearly 35 leisurely hours, but there wasn't a boring moment. The great panorama of America, the tremendous spectacle of varied faces and changing landscapes, rolled by outside the train window by day.

And at night, lying in my berth I kept the shade up until after midnight, watching the small towns swim by, the isolated country churches with small spires gleaming in moonlight above the dreamless dead in their graveyards, the snow giving way to greenery, the bare boughs to the palm tree and the hanging Spanish moss.

It came to me that I hadn't really felt the impact of my native land in quite this mystic way for a long, long time, and as the wheels of the iron horse went clunky-click on the steel rails I had a grateful feeling.

LAFF-A-DAY

Keep Away from Ill Tots

By German N. Dundesen, M.D.

Nursing a young son or daughter with a communicable disease is only half of the homemaker's job. Besides caring for the patient, you must protect other members of the family from catching the illness.

Anyone with a serious contagious disease must be isolated from the rest of the household. Admittedly, this is a difficult task in most homes, but protection of the others is essential. You don't want the whole family sick in bed, do you?

Keep the patient in a room by himself or, if this is impossible, place a screen around his bed.

When you enter the sickroom, put on a wrap-around house-dress backwards. This can serve as a private gown. When you leave, hang it near the door, inside the patient's room.

Launder the patient's pajamas and linen frequently. Keep them separate from the rest of the family's belongings. This is especially important as far as washclothes, combs, toothbrushes—anything that comes in contact with the patient's face or mouth—are concerned.

Advise the patient to use paper tissues instead of handkerchiefs so that you can burn them.

Of course you should wash your hands and face thoroughly each time you enter and leave the sickroom. And be sure to scrub them with a brush when you empty a bedpan.

Like all personal articles, the patient's dishes should be kept separate from those used by the rest of the family. Wash them thoroughly, or boil them in water, if you can, after each meal.

Again, scrub your hands each time you handle the patient's food or dishes.

WASHINGTON (AP)—This week's NATO meeting in Paris demonstrated—if it did nothing else—the profound change which occurred in the world in 1957.

This was the 22nd meeting of the 15 NATO nations' foreign ministers. Its importance was underscored by the presence of heads of state. The nations wound up still partners. But like the other meetings before it, this one produced neither miracles nor sensations.

However, it was in this year that Russia showed—with its Sputniks and missiles—that from now on no corner of the earth will be invulnerable to war. The realization of this spread a change over the face of NATO.

Until now the United States needed its European allies for two basic reasons:

It's no wonder—with this fact so obvious—that the allies at the NATO meeting began throwing their weight around, forcing the United States to listen to what they wanted and didn't want.

This country still retains NATO leadership but its influence has been lessened since Russia launched its Sputniks.

All 15 allied states agreed—because this country insisted—that the NATO countries should accept stockpiles of American nuclear weapons and missiles bases. But this has a big loophole in it. It was only an agreement in principle.

It was on the subject of dealing with Russia that the allies forced this country to listen to them.

This country—through its foreign policy spokesman, Secretary of State Dulles—had come to take a dim view of more talks with the Russians on disarmament or any of the other big East-West problems.

The allies—right in the center of an American-Russian missile war, if it started—wouldn't buy Dulles' attitude. They insisted that new attempts be made to talk with the Russians.

Red Schools Lack Humanities

By George Sokolsky

The assumption which is becoming current in this country as an aftermath of the Sputnik that more boys and girls, proportionately, go to school in Russia than in the United States, is without foundation. However, the Russians do not suffer from progressive education and from hoop-la courses which represent mere attendance rather than tending to business.

John Chipman and Nicholas J. Grant have made a study of "Metallurgical Education in the U.S.S.R." concerning which they prepared a statement for the Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee of which Sen. Lyndon Johnson is Chairman and Edwin L. Weisl, special counsel. From the report it is clear that "educational breadth is sacrificed to specialized training" and that cannot be recommended.

Special schools exist for special subjects, but here no school is as concentrated upon one subject as a similar Russian school would be. There the student coming up from about 10 years of elementary education has had three years each of chemistry and physics and has had mathematics every year. About 80 per cent have studied English; the remainder mostly German or French.

Except for the study of the history of the Communist Party for one year, political economy for two years and philosophy for one year, they spend little time on the humanities. The field is so specialized that after graduation, the student can have no choice as to his career. However, in the present development of Soviet Russia anyone who can get a diploma can get a job.

The students have a 5½-day week, eight hours a day at school, about half lectures and half laboratory. Most students receive a subsistence wage which starts at 30 rubles a month and goes up to 1,000 rubles a month for a graduate student. There are dormitories and cafeterias. As an example, I cite the courses given at the Lenin Polytechnic Institute, Leningrad:

Mathematics; Physics; Theoretical Mechanics; General Chemistry; foreign language (English or German required); History of Party, Political Economics, Philosophy; Analytical Chemistry; Mineralogy, Crystallography; Physical Chemistry; Descriptive Geometry and Mechanical Drawing; Testing Materials; Machine Components; Hydraulics; Blowing and Pneumatic Engines; Electric Technique; Theory of Metallurgical Processes; Metallurgical Furnaces and Automation; Metallurgy and Testing.

Physical training is required for all students.

When this Russian program is analyzed carefully, it is overspecialized and while it may provide excellent technicians and engineers for steel mills and similar metallurgical enterprises, the intellectual training is extraordinarily narrow. Whereas our engineers are also educated for citizenship and to take an active part in public affairs, it would seem that theirs are proletarianized almost from the beginning. Messrs. Chipman and Grant wrote in their report:

"In the first three years, the two systems might be considered fairly comparable, but in the fourth and fifth years the Russian students study subjects and engage in industrial activities which we will not impose upon our students, even in the so-called practice schools or co-operative programs. Much of the training in these years is on subjects which we expect our students to learn after they have graduated and taken jobs in industry. These last two years are, in fact, training for industry rather than education, and this is a road which most of our better schools have avoided. There can be little doubt that the Russian students are well trained for the specific industry they intend to enter."

The Russians are training each student with a specific goal in view; we educate men on the basis that freedom of choice is essential to civilization. This, in a word, is the difference between the two societies: one is Spartan; the other Christian.

For the vast variety of clubs and societies in an American university, a Russian technical school has two social organizations: the trade union group, sponsored by the Ministry of Higher Education, and the Young Communist League. Those who join the latter society immediately come under party discipline and if they remain within the party, their opportunities for advancement will be greater, but so will be their social responsibilities and obligations.

One important point made by Messrs. Chipman and Grant needs to be repeated here:

"Laboratory equipment for instruction in metallurgy in the Russian schools is superior to that in our own. This is true in respect to the quantity of good equipment available and the diversity and advanced nature of the laboratory experiments for which equipment is provided."

Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Richard wrestles with the Phantom of the Sea. The Phantom drags Richard to his palace at the bottom of the sea and tells him he must remain there forever.

CHAPTER 15 THE STRUGGLE

Richard ran to the window of the palace. "I can get away!" he thought. "I can swim to the top." But the Phantom read his thoughts. "You could never get to the top without my flippers," he laughed. "You'd drown first."

Richard sank down on the floor and put his head in his hands. "Now it is really all over," he thought. "I shall never get back to Mittenpo and my father will perish."

"It's a strange thing," smirked the Phantom. "You can't breathe in water and I can't breathe in air. This red sea palace is the only place on earth where we both can live."

Richard raised his head. Was it true? Would the Phantom perish if he were long out of water?

Richard began to think and plan. A dozen ideas flew through his mind. He was filled with joy to know that when he tried he could use his head as well as anyone.

He waited until the Phantom sat down to dinner. Then he pulled out of his pocket the rubber balloon Patrick Tweedleknies had thrown at him. He stood behind the Phantom and blew up the balloon.

He blew and blew. The balloon grew larger and larger. Presently it was three feet around.

"What are you huffing and puffing about?" demanded the Phantom.

"I am hungry," said Richard. "You may eat when I have finished," said the Phantom as he shoved fish into his mouth.

"I am hungry now," said Richard. As he spoke he suddenly held wide the mouth of the balloon and jerked it down over the Phantom's head and shoulders. Now the Phantom was cut off from water. His head was surrounded by the air Richard had blown into the balloon.

"Let go! Let go!" roared the Phantom from inside the balloon. But Richard held the balloon firmly in place. He wrapped his legs around the Phantom's waist pinning his arms to his side. The Phantom struggled and screamed but Richard held on.

Presently the struggles grew weaker and the screams died away. The Phantom lay limp on the table.

Richard let go the balloon. He snatched off the Phantom's flippers and put them on his own feet. Then he tore the black diamond from the Phantom's finger and put it on his own.

590 Diplomas Presented At Ohio State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some 590 seniors and graduate students at Ohio State University receive diplomas today at autumn commencement exercises in the university's St. John Arena.

Doctorate degrees are being conferred on 67 students and masters degrees on another 104.

Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Robert Frost and two scientists are receiving honorary degrees. The scientists are Walter D. Lambert of Canaan, Conn., former chief of the Gravity and Astronomical Section of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey; and Dr. Dael L. Wolfe, executive officer of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, and editor of "Science" and "The Scientific Monthly."

Eighteen graduates will be honored for high academic records.

Four will receive the juris doctor degree, an honor degree in law, while three others will be awarded bachelor's degrees "summa cum laude," with highest honors.

The remaining 11 will graduate "cum laude," (with honors). The juris doctor degrees go to: John L. Evans Jr. of Nelsonville, the top-ranking law graduate; Mrs. B. Joan Krauskopf, Canton; William W. Wehr, Steubenville, and James W. Foreman of Wadsworth.

Fire Routs 7 Families

DAYTON (AP)—Seven families were left homeless here Thursday night when fire ravaged a building containing a radio-television shop, several apartments and a meeting hall.

The Phantom groaned weakly as Richard rushed out of the palace door. The sea churned around the prince. He gave a mighty kick with the flippers and shot upward. Again and again he kicked but still he did not reach the top.

His breath gave out and the ringing began in his ears. With his last bit of strength he gave one more kick and suddenly his head was out of the water and he was safe. He left the flippers by the side of the dreadful sea and sped eastward to Santa Land.

Santa was sitting at his fireside when Richard returned.

"There," said Richard as he laid the black diamond in Santa's hands. "I've brought you the golden thread and I've brought you the black diamond. Now give me courage and wisdom so that I may be a proper prince and save my father's kingdom."

He stood very straight and proud before Santa. His head was high and his eyes were shining.

But Santa looked at him and shook his head. "No," he said. "I cannot give these things to you."

"But—you promised!" cried Richard.

Santa smiled. "How can I give you what you already have?" Richard's mouth fell open in surprise. But before he could speak the door crashed open and Patrick Tweedleknies staggered into the room.

"What a boy!" he gasped. "What a prince! Never has his like been seen before!"

With that the crooked legged dwarf fell in an exhausted heap at Richard's feet.

Couple To Face Louisville Trial

COLUMBUS (AP)—A man and a woman arrested here in connection with the $9,268 holdup of a Louisville, Ky., bank Dec. 3 will be taken to Louisville for trial.

They are Walter Splitt, 37, and Mrs. Barbara Ann Jones, 20-year-old blonde. Both told Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood they have no objection to being tried in Kentucky.

Splitt is charged with the holdup of the East Broadway Branch of the First National Bank in Louisville and Mrs. Jones is accused of receiving the money stolen.

Chillicothe Pair Held for Burglary

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—A man and wife arrested here Thursday were to be picked up by Ohio authorities for investigation in a burglary near Chillicothe, Ohio, Wednesday night, Police Chief Charles F. Howard said.

Estel Glenn Stidham, 33, and his wife, Juanita, 39, of Rt. 5, Chillicothe, were arrested when their car ran a red light. A check protector machine belonging to the Mattox Concrete Products Co. of near Chillicothe was found in the couple's car.

Police Use Own Noses To Track Down Thief

Marie McDonald 'Kidnaping' Rated Top Hollywood Story

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Marie McDonald kidnaping, a bizarre chapter in the gaudy history of Hollywood, ranks as the top story in the big 10 news events of the movie world in 1957.

A survey of the year's news gives the nod to The Body, who started the new year with a blast on Jan. 4 by disappearing from her Encino home. Trailing a string of frantic phone calls about kidnapers, she vanished for 24 hours, turning up in the California desert. The case has never been solved.

But apparently Marie's career problems were solved. The headlines propelled her to a comeback, and she reported she has earned $250,000 for singing appearances in TV and night clubs this year. This compares with virtually no earned income in 1956.

Other noteworthy events of 1957: 2. The Confidential magazine trial. Aided by the State of California, Hollywood had its showdown in court with the scandal magazine that has harassed the film famous.

The result was inconclusive: a hung jury. But Hollywood got what it wanted — Confidential's agreement with the state to get out of the scandal business.

3. Another Oscar for Ingrid Bergman. Hollywood demonstrated its disregard for scandal by giving its highest prize to the Swede for her work in "Anastasia."

4. The marriage of Marlon Brando and Anna Kashfi. The wedding was surprise enough. It was followed by more news: her parents' assertion she was not Indian but just plain Joan O'Callaghan, the announcement that Anna was pregnant, reports that the couple had rifted.

5. The marriage of Bing Crosby and Kathy Grant.

Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: Richard wrestles with the Phantom of the Sea. The Phantom drags Richard to his palace at the bottom of the sea and tells him he must remain there forever.

CHAPTER 15 THE STRUGGLE

Richard ran to the window of the palace. "I can get away!" he thought. "I can swim to the top."

But the Phantom read his thoughts. "You could never get to the top without my flippers," he laughed. "You'd drown first."

Richard sank down on the floor and put his head in his hands. "Now it is really all over," he thought. "I shall never get back to Mittenpoo and my father will perish."

"It's a strange thing," smirked the Phantom. "You can't breathe in water and I can't breathe in air. This red sea palace is the only place on earth where we both can live."

Richard raised his head. Was it true? Would the Phantom perish if he were long out of water? Richard began to think and plan. A dozen ideas flew through his mind. He was filled with joy to know that when he tried he could use his head as well as anyone.

He waited until the Phantom sat down to dinner. Then he pulled out of his pocket the rubber balloon Patrick Tweedleknies had thrown at him. He stood behind the Phantom and blew up the balloon.

He blew and blew. The balloon grew larger and larger. Presently it was three feet around. "What are you huffing and puffing about?" demanded the Phantom. "I am hungry," said Richard. "You may eat when I have finished," said the Phantom as he shoveled fish into his mouth. "I am hungry now," said Richard. As he spoke he suddenly held wide the mouth of the balloon and jerked it down over the Phantom's head and shoulders. Now the Phantom was cut off from water. His head was surrounded by the air Richard had blown into the balloon.

"Let go! Let go!" roared the Phantom from inside the balloon. But Richard held the balloon firmly in place. He wrapped his legs around the Phantom's waist pinning his arms to his side. The Phantom struggled and screamed but Richard held on.

Presently the struggles grew weaker and the screams died away. The Phantom lay limp on the table.

Richard let go the balloon. He snatched off the Phantom's flippers and put them on his own feet. Then he tore the black diamond from the Phantom's finger and put it on his own.

590 Diplomas Presented At Ohio State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some 590 seniors and graduate students at Ohio State University receive diplomas today at autumn commencement exercises in the university's St. John Arena.

Doctorate degrees are being conferred on 67 students and masters degrees on another 104.

Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Robert Frost and two scientists are receiving honorary degrees. The scientists are Walter D. Lambert of Canaan, Conn., former chief of the Gravity and Astronomy Section of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey; and Dr. Dael L. Wolfe, executive officer of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, and editor of "Science" and "The Scientific Monthly."

Eighteen graduates will be honored for high academic records.

Four will receive the juris doctor degree, an honor degree in law, while three others will be awarded bachelor's degrees "summa cum laude," with highest honors.

The juris doctor degrees go to: John L. Evans Jr. of Nelsonville, the top-ranking law graduate; Mrs. B. Joan Krauskopf, Canton; William W. Wehr, Steubenville; and James W. Foreman of Wadsworth.

Fire Routs 7 Families

DAYTON (AP)—Seven families were left homeless here Thursday night when fire ravaged a building containing a radio-television shop, several apartments and a meeting hall.

The Phantom groaned weakly as Richard rushed out of the palace door. The sea churned around the prince. He gave a mighty kick with the flippers and shot upward. Again and again he kicked but still he did not reach the top.

His breath gave out and the ringing began in his ears. With his last bit of strength he gave one more kick and suddenly his head was out of the water and he was safe.

He left the flippers by the side of the dreadful sea and sped eastward to Santa Land.

Santa was sitting at his fireside when Richard returned.

"There," said Richard as he laid the black diamond in Santa's hands. "I've brought you the golden thread and I've brought you the black diamond. Now give me courage and wisdom so that I may be a proper prince and save my father's kingdom."

He stood very straight and proud before Santa. His head was high and his eyes were shining.

But Santa looked at him and shook his head. "No," he said. "I cannot give these things to you."

"But—you promised!" cried Richard.

Santa smiled. "How can I give you what you already have?" Richard's mouth fell open in surprise. But before he could speak the door crashed open and Patrick Tweedleknies staggered into the room.

"What a boy!" he gasped. "What a prince! Never has his like been seen before!"

With that the crooked legged dwarf fell in an exhausted heap at Richard's feet.

Couple To Face Louisville Trial

COLUMBUS (AP)—A man and a woman arrested here in connection with the $9,268 holdup of a Louisville, Ky., bank Dec. 3 will be taken to Louisville for trial.

They are Walter Splitt, 37, and Mrs. Barbara Ann Jones, 20-year-old blonde. Both told Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood they have no objection to being tried in Kentucky.

Splitt is charged with the holdup of the East Broadway Branch of the First National Bank in Louisville and Mrs. Jones is accused of receiving the money stolen.

Chillicothe Pair Held for Burglary

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—A man and wife arrested here Thursday were to be picked up by Ohio authorities for investigation in a burglary near Chillicothe, Ohio, Wednesday night, Police Chief Charles F. Howard said.

Estel Glenn Stidham, 33, and his wife, Juanita, 39, of Rt. 5, Chillicothe, were arrested when their car ran a red light.

A check protector machine belonging to the Mattox Concrete Products Co. of near Chillicothe was found in the couple's car.

Police Use Own Noses To Track Down Thief

ZANESVILLE (AP)—Zanesville police left behind the blood hounds and are trying their own noses at tracking down a thief who broke into the car of Jack Williams of South Zanesville.

The thief took 50 half-ounce bottles of perfume.

There are believed to be only three copies of Noah Webster's first American dictionary extant.

Marie McDonald 'Kidnaping' Rated Top Hollywood Story

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Marie McDonald kidnaping, a bizarre chapter in the gaudy history of Hollywood, ranks as the top story in the big 10 news events of the movie world in 1957.

A survey of the year's news gives the nod to The Body, who started the new year with a blast on Jan. 4 by disappearing from her Encino home. Trailing a string of frantic phone calls about kidnapers, she vanished for 24 hours, turning up in the California desert. The case has never been solved.

But apparently Marie's career problems were solved. The headlines propelled her to a comeback, and she reported she has earned $250,000 for singing appearances in TV and night clubs this year. This compares with virtually no earned income in 1956.

Other noteworthy events of 1957: 2. The Confidential magazine trial. Aided by the State of California, Hollywood had its show-down in court with the scandal magazine that has harassed the film famous.

The result was inconclusive: a hung jury. But Hollywood got what it wanted — Confidential's agreement with the state to get out of the scandal business.

3. Another Oscar for Ingrid Bergman. Hollywood demonstrated its disregard for scandal by giving its highest prize to the Swede for her work in "Anastasia."

4. The marriage of Marlon Brando and Anna Kashfi. The wedding was surprise enough. It was followed by more news: her parents' assertion she was not Indian but just plain Joan O'Callaghan, the announcement that Anna was pregnant, reports that the couple had rifted.

5. The marriage of Bing Crosby and Kathy Grant.

Branch Rickey Named

COLUMBUS (AP)—Branch Rickey, almost as well known for his activities as a Christian layman as for his baseball career, has become a board member for the Temple of Good Will, Inc., a group which plans a giant religious headquarters here.

DAR Program on Christmas Carols Highlights Meeting

Marimba Music Charms Audience

Highlighting the December meeting of the Pickaway Plains Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution was the Story of the Christmas Carols, narrated by Miss Wilma Borror, Ashville, and played by Miss Mable Noble, Washington C. H., on the Marimba.

Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, program chairman, introduced Miss Borror, and Miss Noble, who presented the program. Miss Borror, a graduate from The Conservatory of Music, Cincinnati, and Miss Noble has played the Marimba since she was seven. The carols narrated and played on the Marimba were: "O Little Town of Bethlehem," written by Rev. Philip Brooks, in 1868; "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," 1850-51; "Calm, on the listening Ear of the Night," written by Edmund Sears and Richard Willis;

"Rise up Shepherd and Follow," and "Go Tell it to the Mountain," both Negro Spirituals. "As Jesus was a Walking," "I heard the bells on Christmas Day," by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, 1863. "We, Three Kings," by Rev. John Hopkins, 1857; "Birthday of a King," "White Christmas," by Irving Berlin, "Rudolph, the Red Nose Reindeer," and concluded with the famous carol, "Silent Night," which was written by the Rev. Joseph Mohr and Franz Guber, in 1818, and made famous by Madam Schumann Heineck during World War I.

The meeting was held in the Presbyterian Church, on Tuesday, at 7:30 p. m., with 27 members and 3 guests present.

The meeting was opened in Ritualistic Form by the Regent, Miss Marie Hamilton, assisted by the Chaplain, Mrs. Christian Schwarz, who took for her devotionals, from John 3:17 and 2nd Corinthians 9:15.

Miss Ruth Montelius was allotted five minutes to discuss National Defense.

Miss Hamilton paid a high tribute to the late Mrs. Meeker Terwilliger, who passed away in November.

Christmas cards were to be signed and sent to Mrs. Tom Wilson, Mrs. James Moffitt and Miss Florence Hoffman.

Reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were given. A card of thanks from George Hamrick,

Trinity Lutheran Circles Combine for Festive Party

The annual Christmas party of the combined Circles of Trinity Lutheran Church, was held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Parish House. The meeting room was beautifully decorated with three Christmas trees, greens with red bows, and many lighted red candles. Circle 3 was responsible for the decorating.

Mrs. Richard Penn presided at a brief business meeting, and then turned the program over to Mrs. Robert Wills who had planned the program.

The Junior Mission Group presented a short playlet "Let's Light the Tree" in which Norma Ruth Troutman and Peggy Steinhauer took part. The playlet concluded with carol singing by the following Juniors: Karen and Marlene Neuman, Elissa Evans, Nancy Pickel, Mike Lorentz, Bruce Barnes, Linda Steinhauer, Linda Steck, Carol Bahr and Christine Zehner, and Leslie Kurtz.

The speaker for the evening was Mrs. Roy Wipert of Washington C. H. She sang some folk songs, accompanying herself on an Autoharp and then talked on "Simplicity". In both a very humorous and serious way, she suggested that it would be well for all of us to try to simplify our lives and our way of living; eliminate many unnecessary things and replace them with the more worthwhile; look into the past and see what ideas and methods and things have been forgotten that could be in use today.

Concluding the program was the installation of the new officers and Circle Chairmen by Pastor Zehner. These are: Mrs. Truman Eberly, president; Mrs. Gladde Troutman, 1st vice president; Mrs. Russell Skaggs, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Grace Walters, secretary and Mrs. Paul Brown, treasurer.

Department chairmen: India: Mrs. Margaret Evans, New Guinea: Mrs. V. D. Kerns, Christian Service: Mrs. John Adler, Special Needs: Mrs. Wayne Morris, Missionary Education: Mrs. John Beck, Thankoffering: Miss Doris Schreiner, Life Membership and Memorials: Mrs. Richard Fellmeth and Junior Mission Group: Mrs. M. D. Lorentz.

Circle Chairmen include: Circle 1, Mrs. Harry Trump; Circle 2, Mrs. Jack White; Circle 3, Mrs. Robert Wills; Circle 4, Mrs. William Courtney; Circle 5, Mrs. John Minke and Circle 6 Mrs. Dave Walters.

As a Christmas service project, the members all brought food to be distributed to needy families for Christmas; also gifts and cookies for the Pickaway county residents who are patients in the Franklin County T. B. Hospital.

During the social hour the center of attention was the beautiful cutglass punchbowl on the table. The hostess served Christmas cookies, candy and nuts with the

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Five Points Methodist Church held their December meeting and Christmas party in the home of Mrs. Ernest Sheets with 11 members and three children present.

The president, Mrs. Francis Furniss, read the Christmas story as told by St. Luke, followed by prayer.

The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Herman Porter and plans were made to serve the lunch at James Wills' sale January 16.

Election of officers was held with the following results: President, Mrs. Francis Furniss; Vice President, Mrs. Ernest Sheets; Secretary, Mrs. Herman Porter, and Treasurer, Mrs. Paul Dawson.

The following readings were given: "Christmas Council" by Mrs. John Brown, "Star of Bethlehem" by Mrs. Paul Dawson, "That I May Know Him" by Mrs. Elbert Rawlins, "Let us Adore the Savior" by Mrs. Charles Parks, "Tell Me Why" by Mrs. Festus Hill and "Christmas Cheer" by Mrs. Furniss.

A Christmas gift exchange was enjoyed and the meeting closed with group singing "Silent Night", followed by the benediction.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sheets, assisted by Mrs. Herman Porter and Mrs. Turney Sheets.

The January meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Paul Dawson.

Pythian Sisters Exchange Gifts At Meeting

Following the regular Pythian Sister meeting held in Philos Lodge the annual Christmas Party was conducted.

Thirty nine members were present for the gift exchange. The program consisted of readings by Mrs. Paul Turner of "The Blue Shawl" and "Who Santa Claus Wuz".

Clarence Radcliffe directed the group singing of Christmas Carols. Accompanist at the piano was Mrs. David Glick.

The conclusion of the evening was the lunch served by the following committee: chairman Mrs. R. E. Nau, assisted by Mrs. Mae Groce, Mrs. N. I. Mowery, Mrs. Russell Lane and Miss Ethel Stein.

Other committees of the evening were: decoration, chairman, Miss Clara Lathouse, assisted by Mrs. Harry Lane and Mrs. Robert Eccard; program chairman, Irvin Reid, assisted by Harry Styers, Loring Davis and Robert Denman.

Borries Holds Dinner at Tinks For Department

Fred Borries was host at a Christmas party for the employees of the finishing department of Lincoln Molded Plastics Wednesday evening at Tink's Tavern. The group enjoyed dinner after which a gift exchange was held. Music and dancing climaxed the merriment of the evening.

Those attending were Betty Davis, Janet Brooks, Alice Boltenshouse, Patricia Young, Eleanor Arledge, Marilyn Hardbarger, Betty McFarland, Frances Swackhammer, Elsie Gray, Olympia Frye, Irene Rose, Virginia Archer, Virginia Hoffman, Betty Riffle, Mary Noble, Dorothea Woodward, Estella Barnhart, Kathleen Good, Faye Leatherwood, Wilma Seyfang, Dorothy Arledge, Genevieve Carroll, Paul Dietzel, Paul Graffis, Earl Omier, Richard Pardee and the host, Fred Borries.

Mrs. Wes Edstrom Jr. was chairman of a committee from Circle 4 which planned and carried out the lunch hour.

EUB Kappa Beta Class Holds Christmas Party

The Kappa Beta Class of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church went to Pickaway Arms for a Christmas dinner and then to the home of Mrs. Montford Kirkwood, 110 Collins Court, with Miss Lucille Kirkwood as assisting hostess for a Christmas party.

The devotions were conducted by Miss Kirkwood, using the Christmas story and the singing of Christmas carols.

President, Miss Phyllis Hawkes conducted the business session. The losers of the attendance contest will have charge of a Hobo party to be held February 1 in the Service Center.

Mystery sisters for the past year were revealed and new ones drawn for the coming year. Miss Hawkes and Miss Kirkwood received gifts from the class.

They in turn presented gifts to each member. A gift exchange was held. Members present were Mrs. Tom Bozman, Mrs. Woodrow Carley, Miss Marilyn Francis, Miss Marjorie Francis, Miss Hawkes, Mrs. Glenn Heffner, Mrs. Billy Lockard, Miss Delores Mavis, Miss Kathy Schneider, Mrs.

Mrs. Dallas Stephens, manager of the Beverly Shop, was hostess to the employees of the store at a holiday dinner. The Christmas theme was carried out in the decorations and background music. Guests exchanged gifts.

Present for the occasion were: Mrs. Raymond Barr, Mrs. William Moore, Mrs. Bob Brown, Mrs. Harold Wilson, Miss Irene Skaggs and Miss Teresa Arledge.

Cecil Stauffer, Miss Mary Ward, Miss Olive Ward, Mrs. Tom Weaver, Miss Leona Wise, Miss Virginia Wise, Mrs. Carl Baker, Miss Sally Conley, Miss Carol Kirkwood, Mrs. Herbert Miller and the hostess.

Contests were won by Mrs. Billy Lockard and Miss Marilyn Francis, which were conducted by Miss Kirkwood.

Miss Mary Ward, Miss Olive Ward and Miss Janet Brooks will have charge of devotions and program at the January meeting.

Trinity Lutheran Circles Combine for Festive Party

The annual Christmas party of the combined Circles of Trinity Lutheran Church, was held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Parish House. The meeting room was beautifully decorated with three Christmas trees, greens with red bows, and many lighted red candles. Circle 3 was responsible for the decorating.

Mrs. Richard Penn presided at a brief business meeting, and then turned the program over to Mrs. Robert Willis who had planned the program.

The Junior Mission Group presented a short playlet "Let's Light the Tree" in which Norma Ruth Troutman and Peggy Steinhauer took part. The playlet concluded with carol singing by the following Juniors: Karen and Marlene Neuman Elissa Evans Nancy Pickel Mike Lorentz Bruce Barnes Linda Steinhauer Linda Steele, Carol Bahr and Christine Zehner, and Leslie Kurtz.

The speaker for the evening was Mrs. Roy Wipert of Washington C. H. She sang some folk songs, accompanying herself on an Autoharp and then talked on "Simplicity". In both a very humorous and serious way, she suggested that it would be well for all of us to try to simplify our lives and our way of living; eliminate many unnecessary things and replace them with the more worthwhile; look into the past and see what ideas and methods and things have been forgotten that could be in use today.

Concluding the program was the installation of the new officers and Circle Chairmen by Pastor Zehner. These are: Mrs. Truman Eberly, president; Mrs. Gladys Troutman, 1st vice president, Mrs. Russell Skaggs, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Grace Walters, secretary and Mrs. Paul Brown, treasurer.

Department chairmen: India: Mrs. Margaret Evans, New Guinea: Mrs. V. D. Kerns, Christian Service: Mrs. John Adler, Special Needs: Mrs. Wayne Morris, Missionary Education: Mrs. John Beck, Thankoffering: Miss Doris Schreiner, Life Membership and Memorials: Mrs. Richard Feltmeth and Junior Mission Group: Mrs. M. D. Lorentz.

Circle Chairmen include: Circle 1, Mrs. Harry Trump; Circle 2, Mrs. Jack White; Circle 3, Mrs. Robert Willis; Circle 4, Mrs. William Courtney; Circle 5, Mrs. John Minke and Circle 6 Mrs. Dave Walters.

As a Christmas service project, the members all brought food to be distributed to needy families for Christmas; also gifts and cookies for the Pickaway county residents who are patients in the Franklin County T. B. Hospital.

During the social hour the center of attention was the beautiful cutglass punchbowl on the table. The hostess served Christmas cookies, candy and nuts with the Election of officers was held with the following results: President, Mrs. Francis Furniss; Vice President, Mrs. Ernest Sheets; Secretary, Mrs. Herman Porter, and Treasurer, Mrs. Paul Dawson.

The following readings were given "Christmas Council" by Mrs. John Brown, "Star of Bethlehem" by Mrs. Paul Dawson, "That I May Know Him" by Mrs. Elbert Rawlins, "Let us Adore the Savior" by Mrs. Charles Parks, "Tell Me Why?" by Mrs. Festus Hill and "Christmas Cheer" by Mrs. Furniss.

A Christmas gift exchange was enjoyed and the meeting closed with group singing "Silent Night", followed by the benediction.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sheets, assisted by Mrs. Herman Porter and Mrs. Turney Sheets.

The January meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Paul Dawson.

Price or Paul Helwagen before Tuesday evening."

Pythian Sisters Exchange Gifts At Meeting

Following the regular Pythian Sister meeting held in Philo Lodge the annual Christmas Party was conducted.

Thirty nine members were present for the gift exchange. The program consisted of readings by Mrs. Paul Turner of "The Blue Shawl" and "Who Santa Claus Wuz."

Clarence Radcliffe directed the group singing of Christmas Carols. Accompanist at the piano was Mrs. David Glick.

The conclusion of the evening was the lunch served by the following committee: chairman Mrs. R. E. Nau, assisted by Mrs. Mae Groce, Mrs. N. I. Mowery, Mrs. Russell Lane and Miss Ethel Stein.

Other committees of the evening were: decoration, chairman, Miss Clara Lathouse, assisted by Mrs. Harry Lane and Mrs. Robert Eccard; program chairman, Irvin Reid, assisted by Harry Styers, Loring Davis and Robert Denman.

Borries Holds Dinner at Tinks For Department

Fred Borries was host at a Christmas party for the employees of the finishing department of Lincoln Molded Plastics Wednesday evening at Tink's Tavern. The group enjoyed dinner after which a gift exchange was held. Music and dancing climaxed the merriment of the evening.

Those attending were Betty Davis, Janet Brooks, Alice Boltenshouse, Patricia Young, Eleanor Arledge, Marilyn Hardbarger, Betty McFarland, Frances Swackhammer, Elsie Gray, Olympia Frye, Irene Rose, Virginia Archer, Virginia Hoffman, Betty Riffle, Mary Noble, Dorothea Woodward, Estella Barnhart, Kathleen Good, Faye Leatherwood, Wilma Seyfang, Dorothy Arledge, Genevieve Carroll, Paul Dietzel, Paul Graffis, Earl Omler, Richard Partee and the host, Fred Borries.

punch. Mrs. Wes Edstrom Jr. was chairman of a committee from Circle 4 which planned and carried out the lunch hour.

EUB Kappa Beta Class Holds Christmas Party

The Kappa Beta Class of the First Evangelical United Brethren Church went to Pickaway Arms for a Christmas dinner and then to the home of Mrs. Montford Kirkwood, 110 Collins Court, with Miss Lucille Kirkwood as assisting hostess for a Christmas party.

The devotionals were conducted by Miss Kirkwood, using the Christmas story and the singing of Christmas carols.

President, Miss Phyllis Hawkes conducted the business session. The losers of the attendance contest will have charge of a Hobo party to be held February 1 in the Service Center.

Mystery sisters for the past year were revealed and new ones drawn for the coming year. Miss Hawkes and Miss Kirkwood received gifts from the class.

They in turn presented gifts to each member. A gift exchange was held. Members present were Mrs. Tom Bozman, Mrs. Woodrow Carley, Miss Marilyn Francis, Miss Marjorie Francis, Miss Hawkes, Mrs. Glenn Heffner, Mrs. Billy Lockard, Miss Delores Davis, Miss Kathy Schneider, Mrs.

Beverly Shop Employees Given Christmas Party

Mrs. Dallas Stephens, manager of the Beverly Shop, was hostess to the employees of the store at a holiday dinner. The Christmas theme was carried out in the decorations and background music. Guests exchanged gifts.

Present for the occasion were: Mrs. Raymond Barr, Mrs. William Moore, Mrs. Bob Brown, Mrs. Harold Wilson, Miss Irene Skaggs and Miss Teresa Arledge.

Cecil Stauffer, Miss Mary Ward, Miss Olive Ward, Mrs. Tom Weaver, Miss Leona Wise, Miss Virginia Wise, Mrs. Carl Baker, Miss Sally Conley, Miss Carol Kirkwood, Mrs. Herbert Miller and the hostess.

Contests were won by Mrs. Billy Lockard and Miss Marilyn Francis, which were conducted by Miss Kirkwood.

Miss Mary Ward, Miss Olive Ward and Miss Janet Brooks will have charge of devotionals and program at the January meeting.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: How do I go about getting married? I am an American girl and the man I am going to marry is English, a member of the crew of an ocean liner.

The ship is due to dock here on Jan. 17, and we had planned to get married the following day. But I wasn't aware, until now, of all the red tape that is connected with it.

George will be here only three days. And I had thought that I could apply for the marriage license by myself, but I find I can't. Meantime, George is under the impression that everything is set; and so is his family. But here I am right where I started.

As George's stay will be so short, mother was thinking of giving a party for all our friends, after the wedding. There would be about 50 people, and as her rooms are small, it might be somewhat crowded. So, have you any other suggestions?

Next year I expect to make my home in England with George. Will I have to pay duty on anything I bring in—I mean linens, kitchenware, furniture, and such? I sincerely hope that I won't have to pay duty on wedding gifts. I don't know that we will be staying permanently in England. Will that make a difference?

S. Y.

DEAR S.Y.: It occurs to me that the staff of the British consul's office in your city might be in a position to help you unsnarl the legal red tape of marrying an Englishman who can't be here to represent himself in the advance-planning phase.

That's why the consulate of any nation is in business, in another land—to look after the interests of its countrymen abroad, in a friendly efficient way. And of course George is an Englishman abroad, when he arrives in your town to marry you.

Still another possibility of help, in getting the marriage license on your own (by special dispensation) is your town's Legal Aid Bureau. An attorney there might be willing to advise and represent you in the special circumstances, and maybe induce the powers-that-be to issue a license to George, by proxy.

About the party: Inasmuch as marriage is a public contract, as well as a sacramental rite, it is fitting and proper to celebrate the ceremony with social festivity—and thus take one's place in the community as Mr. and Mrs., with the support and approval of a host of friends.

And 50 guests aren't too many for even a small apartment. It needn't be a sit-down or stay-all-evening party. A reception on a modest scale, with a generously stocked buffet table, from which guests may help themselves to snack foods and wedding cake, will do. With tea and coffee also available at opposite ends of the table; and maybe champagne punch in good supply too, from a sideboard or possibly a make-do bar in the kitchen, you'd have all the essentials of hospitality.

No matter how humble or simple, there is more style and warmth to home hospitality than to parties given in public rooms—as at a clubhouse or hotel—although at times one has no choice but to employ the latter.

Just do what you can do; and don't try to do more, on the score of party-giving, than your circumstances and funds permit, comfortably.

As for the question of paying import duty on year-old household goods (including wedding gifts), I shouldn't think you'd have to. But to end suspense, get the whole answer, here and now, from the staff of the British consulate aforementioned. There, too, would be the logical place to get informed answers to all pertinent questions that come to mind, apropos living in England eventually.

'Santa Claus' Indiana Shares Its Distinction

SANTA CLAUS, Calif. (AP)—For a long time Indiana had a monopoly on the title "Santa Claus" as the name of a town.

In fact Congress said that no other postoffice in the United States could use the name. But in Southern California is this coastal hamlet with the name Santa Claus. How did they get away with it?

Well, something of a technicality was used. More than 100 years ago the town in Indiana was named Santa Claus to give children a thrill when they got letters with that postmark at Christmas-time. Congress decided the Indiana town was entitled to exclusive use of the name for a postoffice. But here the village is not classified as a full-fledged postoffice.

2 Indictments Returned In Youngstown Slayings

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—First and second degree murder indictments have been returned by the Mahoning County grand jury against F. V. Harris, 46. He is charged with the shotgun slaying Oct. 6 of his wife Anna, 45, and Cenie Cole, 29, shot as they sat in a car parked at Harris' home.

New Pamphlet To Tell About Ohio Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The House Rules Committee has approved publication of pamphlets explaining operations of the Ohio Legislature.

House Speaker Roger Cloud (R-Logan), committee chairman, said the pamphlets would be available without cost to representatives, schools, civic groups and visitors to the Statehouse.

Cloud also proposed a study of means to make the state flag available to schools and others desiring to purchase them.

Rep. Ed Wallace (D-Pickaway), a committee member, said schools have difficulty in obtaining the state flag.

"We stress the teaching of the history of Ohio by our schools, but they can't get a state flag," he reported.

Carl Guess, House clerk, said Ohio flags were available from the United States Chemical Co. at Greenville.

Committee members expressed belief that the next Legislature would take action to make Ohio flags available to schools and others desiring them.

Christ in the Likeness of Men

SHEPHERDS VISIT THE NEW-BORN CHILD AND SPREAD THE TIDINGS

Scripture—Philippians 2; Luke 2:8-20.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THE FIRST part of today's lesson is from Paul's epistle to the Philippians, chapter 2, of which the part printed in our Peloubet's Notes, edited by Dr. Wilbur M. Smith, is verses one to 11. Paul reminds the Philippians that they "Fulfil ye my joy, that ye be likeminded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind."

"Let nothing be done through strife, or vainglory; but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves. Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others."

In other words, they were to practice love to one another, and to be humble and unselfish. "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus," Paul writes. Then he writes: "That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; and that every tongue behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

"And this shall be a sign unto you; ye shall find the Babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."

Then suddenly there were a multitude of the heavenly host with the angel, praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

The angels went away and the shepherds said among themselves, "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known to us."

So they went to Bethlehem and found Mary and Joseph and the Babe, as the angel had said, and "When they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this Child. And all that heard it wondered at those things which should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father."

Then we turn to St. Luke's gospel, which tells us of the birth of Jesus—"the most beautiful passages in all literature," Dr. Smith says, and we agree with him. Only Matthew and Luke contain accounts of His birth. Our lesson today is from Luke and covers only the episode of the shepherds who were the first informed of it, by angels from heaven. They were chosen, humble men as they were, to spread the marvelous news abroad.

The shepherds were in a field keeping watch over their flocks, as they were accustomed to do, to protect the sheep from wild beasts. Suddenly an angel of the Lord appeared to these humble men and a great light from heaven surrounded them. They were frightened, as one of us would be. But the angel calmed them by saying: "Fear not; for, Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission.

were told them by the shepherds." Mary, the gentle mother of Jesus, "kept all these things and pondered them in her heart." What thoughts must have been here and how blest she must have felt as she gazed upon her beautiful Babe and cared for Him.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them. We have no more space to comment, but suggest that the children be reminded of babies born into their own families and those of friends, which have brought joy into modern households. But as it was said of Jesus that "No man spake as this man," so no other birth but His has brought so much blessing into the world (contentions too, alas) as the birth of our Lord, Jesus Christ. On His birthday which we celebrate let us, too, praise God for His blessings.

Barrymore's 'Scrooge' Is Due Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Whatever various things Christmas means to various people, it means "A Christmas Carol" to a great many.

Employees To Be Given Shares in Company

CINCINNATI (AP)—Employees of the 10-year-old Charles Tobias Bros. & Co., makers of men's and boy's hats and caps, will be part owners of the firm when they start the new year.

Elmer E. Heinze, president, announced Thursday it is incorporating and that each employee will become a stockholder. The firm has 35 employees and Heinze said most of them have been with the company for more than 20 years.

at 7 p. m. a playlet, "God's Supreme Gift" will be presented. There will be treats for all who attend this program.

Dramatizations of Charles Dickens' story have become a television staple in the Christmas season. Last year, there were at least six TV adaptations. Perhaps we've reached the nostalgic age, but it seems there never was a more convincing Scrooge than the late Lionel Barrymore in his annual radio dramatization.

Although Barrymore is dead, he will be heard again in his familiar role next Sunday on CBS radio. This is largely thanks to Dailey Paskman, veteran producer, director and writer, who was associated with Barrymore on most of the actor's 17 radio broadcasts of "A Christmas Carol."

"I've played many roles in my career," Barrymore once told Paskman, "but if there is one role I really hope to be remembered for, it's that of Ebenezer Scrooge."

The actor began performing "A Christmas Carol" for radio audiences in 1934 and preferred to do it "live" each year. In 1947, however, Paskman persuaded Barrymore to do a tape-recorded performance—frankly, for posterity.

Dramatizations of Charles Dickens' story have become a television staple in the Christmas season. Last year, there were at least six TV adaptations. Perhaps we've reached the nostalgic age, but it seems there never was a more convincing Scrooge than the late Lionel Barrymore in his annual radio dramatization.

Although Barrymore is dead, he will be heard again in his familiar role next Sunday on CBS radio. This is largely thanks to Dailey Paskman, veteran producer, director and writer, who was associated with Barrymore on most of the actor's 17 radio broadcasts of "A Christmas Carol."

"I've played many roles in my career," Barrymore once told Paskman, "but if there is one role I really hope to be remembered for, it's that of Ebenezer Scrooge."

The actor began performing "A Christmas Carol" for radio audiences in 1934 and preferred to do it "live" each year. In 1947, however, Paskman persuaded Barrymore to do a tape-recorded performance—frankly, for posterity.

Tar Heel '5' Puts Record on Block Tonight

To Pit Champions Kentucky Tournament Against Minnesota

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina's Tar Heels, who had all the answers a year ago, put their book of basketball knowledge to its first serious test of the new college season tonight.

The Tar Heels, skipping along on a carry-over 36-game winning streak, play unbeaten Minnesota in the opener of the class-jammed Kentucky Invitation tournament at Lexington.

Minnesota is 10th ranked nationally in the Associated Press poll and 3-0 against the likes of Southern Methodist, Iowa State and Vanderbilt. If the Gophers can't do it, then the Tar Heels will be confronted with tonight's West Virginia-Kentucky winner in the Saturday final.

Either match appears more of a problem than the defending national champs have had to solve in tacking victories over much-whomped Clemson, George Washington, Furman and South Carolina to last year's 32-0 record.

On the odd chance this tournament doesn't suit you, the two-day Blue Grass tourney opens tonight at Louisville with the host Louisville Cardinals playing Army and San Francisco meeting Seattle, another West Coast biggie. And the Carrousel tournament continues at Charlotte with semifinal action matching Tennessee against Louisiana Tech and Alabama against Louisiana State.

On the non-tournament level, Dayton, Western Kentucky, and Mississippi State, No. 18 nationally, had good nights Thursday.

Dayton crushed Fordham 64-35, allowing the Rams only 12 points in the first half and only nine field goals in the game. Western Kentucky, with massive Ralph Crosthwaite scoring 35 and moving around like a sprinter, routed Seton Hall 101-75 in the wrap-up of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader after New York Univ. had downed South Carolina, 81-66 in the opener. Mississippi State, winning its seventh in a row behind Bailey Howell's 39-point spurge, cuffed Murray (Ky) State 86-69.

Among the dwindling unbeaten, Boston Univ. won its fourth, 65-55 over Colgate; Niagara its fifth, 79-72 over Scranton; Princeton its fifth, 80-47 over Rutgers; and Boston College its sixth, 92-62 over Brandeis. But little Tufts, thrice-beaten, chopped Harvard off the perfect-record list, 68-63.

Southern Methodist, apparently back in form, defeated Auburn 75-65, and Bob MacGillivray's fielder with 17 seconds left won for North Carolina State over Villanova, 57-56.

Wisconsin won its fourth in five, 59-58 from Butler, escaping when Butler's Bob Plump, sixth best free throw man in the nation last year, blew one after time had run out. Purdue's second half rally stopped South Dakota 74-62 and Indiana, defending co-champ of the Big Ten, finally won its first after three losses, 79-66 over St. Mary's (Calif.).

Georgia tripped Georgia Tech 69-68 on Ray Allen's free throw with 23 seconds left in overtime and Tulane's record went to 5-1 with a 65-58 defeat of Virginia Tech.

Once-beaten Georgetown (DC) defeated St. Peter's (NJ) for its fifth straight, Texas Christian, now 5-1, beat Howard Payne 80-62, and sub Wayne Hester's set shooting paced Nebraska's 61-53 victory over Ohio U.

Buckeyes Own Better Record In Coming Battle of Roses

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor
Bowl biz, the Rose Bowl, if you will: Ohio State, the favorite, won eight games in a row after being upset by Texas Christian in the opener, 18 to 14.

Oregon, winners of seven games, lost to Pittsburgh, 6 to 3; to Washington, 13 to 6, and to Oregon State, 10 to 7.

Only team both clubs met was Washington, which licked Oregon but was hacked, 35 to 7, by the Buckeyes.

ACTUALLY, the two teams compare very favorably in offensive statistics, despite the better record of the Bucks and a much tougher schedule.

Oregon made 162 first downs in 10 games while Ohio State recorded 167 in nine games.

The "Webfoots" had 652 plays and the Bucks had 627. Oregon gained 2,058 net yards rushing compared to the Ohio total of 2,681 yards.

Ohio State is considered a grind 'em-out team, using mostly ground plays, but their passing doesn't compare with that of Oregon.

Ohio tossed 72 times and completed 35 for a 445-yard gain and four touchdowns. Oregon attempted 127 passes and completed 66 for 839 yards and eight touchdowns.

Individually, the Buckeyes were led by Don Clark, Bob White and Dick LeBeau. Clark had 118 rushes for 655 yards and scored eight touchdowns although he missed the last two games. White, who carried 89 times, gained 552 yards. And LeBeau had 84 rushes for 379 yards and seven touchdowns. Frank Kremblas, the quarterback, had a .439 completion mark in passing.

THE Oregon workhorses, Jim Shanley, halfback, and Jack Morris, the fullback, piled up most of the team's rushing yardage. Shanley had 664 yards gained in 168 carries and Morris finished with 611 in 104 carries. Jack Crabtree, the quarterback, attempted 99 psases, completing 55, for a .555 average.

End Ron Stover of Oregon caught 24 passes for 247 yards and two touchdowns. Ohio's best end, Leo Brown, caught only seven passes for 83 yards and no touchdowns.

Kremblas topped Morris in the punting department, the Ohio State signal caller booting 24 times for a 37-yard average. Morris kicked 33 for a 35-yard mark.

Tigers at Greenfield, Ten Other Area Games on Tap

Basketball will be in the spotlight with 11 games scheduled in the county and surrounding areas.

Circleville's Tigers will lead the parade of hardwood tests with a trip to Greenfield McClain for a South Central Ohio League tilt. The CHS cagers will be after their first loop win in two starts and their fourth in six outings. Greenfield has lost two and won none in SCOL play.

A top game in the Pickaway County League will feature Scioto at Walnut. Although Walnut has dropped two of three league tests, the Tigers are still considered contenders for loop honors.

Scioto has won four and lost one in the circuit.

Two other games which may have an important bearing on league standings are New Holland at Pickaway and Jackson at Darby. Darby is currently leading the loop with a 3-0 record.

Other contests slated are Ashville at Atlanta, Williamsport at Salsereek, Amanda at Rushville, Laureville at Murray City, Kingstop at Clarksburg, Millersport at Stoutsville and Centralia at Frankfort.

Yankee Net Stars Eager For Contest

MELBOURNE (N.S.W.)—Hard knocks have put the U. S. Davis Cup team in a "fighting mood" and Capt. Bill Talbert thinks it might pay off with a victory over Australia next week.

"It's one of the biggest factors in our favor," the crewcut non-playing captain said today. "This is a team which overcame tremendous odds to get where it is. Now it's in a fighting mood and it feels it could go all the way."

Talbert was so enthused he feels the United States has its best chance since 1954 at the Cup that means tennis supremacy.

Talbert said the squad members have been brought close together with the knowledge that they're on a patch-up team because top-flight players such as Ham Richardson, Dick Savitt and Budge Patty turned down berths.

Extra pressure was put on the squad with the illness of Herbie Flam, the No. 2 singles player, Talbert added.

"There is no doubt that we were lucky to get past the Belgians in our unsettled state," Talbert said. "Winning the interzone matches at Brisbane gave us fresh impetus and incentive. Nobody is afraid of Australia now."

What has impressed Talbert most is the grim, bulldog spirit of 34-year-old Vic Seixas.

"If Vic should go into the challenge round with that same spirit and determination," said Talbert, "I think he will win both of his singles matches. I never have seen Seixas so anxious to win."

Red Rocha Named To Pilot Pistons

DETROIT (AP)—Hawaii born Ephraim (Red) Rocha, whose one season of play with the Pistons caught the eye of owner Fred Zollner, has been named new head coach of the Detroit National Basketball Assn. club.

The 34-year-old sheet metal salesman was a surprise choice Thursday to replace Charley Eckman, the fast-talking, cigar-chewing one-time NBA referee who directed the Pistons to two Western Division titles and a tie for another at Fort Wayne before he was forced to resign.

Newton Falls High Put on Probation

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio High School Athletic Assn. has placed Newton Falls High School in Trumbull County on probation until Jan. 1, 1959, because of a fracas following a football game Oct. 25.

H. W. Emswiler, head of the association, Thursday said Newton Falls' coach, James Hober, punched head linesman Joe Begala during an argument following a game between Newton Falls and Ravenna Southeast. The argument started because Begala put a couple of Newton Falls players out of the game.

Jockey Bill Hartack won 35 races in 101 chances during the month of October, 1957. He won 59 races in July while accepting 159 mounts.

ONE TO STAY; THE OTHER?—Michigan State's football coach, Duffy Daugherty (right), who announced that he will stay at the East Lansing school rather than take an offered Texas A&M job, listens to Fritz Crisler, Michigan's athletic director, at Chicago meeting. Crisler may go to the Pacific Coast conference as commissioner. (International)

Buck Players Picked for Rose Bowl

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State's Rose Bowl-bound football team is enjoying a pre-Christmas holiday today. The 40-man squad takes off for the West Coast by plane at 8 a. m. Saturday.

Coach Woody Hayes held his last practice here Wednesday and then gave the Buckeyes the next two days off.

Players making the trip to Pasadena to face Oregon Jan. 1: Dick Anders, Birtho Arnold, Ron Bailey, Tom Baldacci, Russ Bowernmaster, Ed Breehl, Leo Brown, Joe Cannavino, Galen Cisco, Don Clark, Ron Cook, Al Crawford, Tom Crawford, John Dresser, Larry Disner, Jerry Fields, Dan Fronk, Jim Houston, Dan James, Bill Jobko, Herb Jones, Frank Kremblas, Dick LeBeau, Jim Marshall, John Martin, Jim Matz, Dick Michael, Tom Morgan, Andy Okulovich, Phil Robinson, Dick Schafraath, Fred Schenking, Bruce Schram, Ernie Spychalski, Don Sutherin, Aurelius Thomas, Joe Trivisonno, Ed Walsh, Bill Wentz and Bob White.

The Oregon Rose Bowl team also will leave by plane Saturday for Los Angeles.

Bad weather Thursday kept the team indoors. A practice session had been planned but because of a wind and rain storm, the drill was limited to calisthenics.

Top Stars Booked For Hula Bowl Test

HONOLULU (AP)—Rosters for Hawaii's 12th annual Hula Bowl game read like a "who's who" of the college and professional football stars.

All America John Crow of Texas A&M, winner of the Heisman award, tops an array of college talent which will fly to the islands for the Jan. 5 contest. Coach Buck Shaw of the Air Force Academy will pilot the collegians.

Coaching the Hawaii All-Stars, made up of 12 pros and 10 Hawaii-stationed military gridders, is Elroy (Crazylegs) Hirsch, Los Angeles Rams ace. His squad includes Tobin Rote, Detroit Lions quarterback; San Francisco 49er Joe Perry and Frank Gifford of the New York Giants.

Stanford Lingers In Pacific Loop

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Stanford has decided to remain in the wobbly Pacific Coast Conference for the time being and help with "unfinished business" including the circuit's contract with the Big Ten for the annual Rose Bowl football games.

A statement by President J. E. Wallace Sterling, following a board of trustees meeting Thursday, appeared to leave the door open for the Indians to pull out later, however.

Future of the 42-year-old conference remains doubtful.

California, UCLA, Southern California and Washington plan to leave the conference in a dispute over aid to athletes.

homers, 28 doubles and one triple in winning his ninth slugging title.

New York's Mickey Mantle, voted the AL's most valuable player last season, was second in slugging with .665, followed by Washington's Roy Sievers with .579.

Twin brothers Bill and Jim Berrier were outstanding football players for Juniata during the 1957 season. Both played in the backfield.

Williams Collects '57 Slugging Title

CHICAGO (AP)—Boston's Ted Williams, winner of his fifth American League batting championship with .388, today was certified for the slugging crown with the highest major league mark in 16 years, .731.

The slugging title is determined by dividing total bases by the number of times officially at bat. Williams in 1957 hit for 307 total bases in 420 trips, including 38

Kingston, Host to Holiday Tourney, Opens with Unioto

Drawings were held yesterday at the Kingston High School for pairings in the Kingston Christmas Holiday Basketball Tournament. Kingston will oppose Unioto in the opening game and Clarksburg will meet Centralia in the second contest.

The tournament will be played on December 27 and 28. The doors will be open at 6 p. m. both nights and when the tickets are sold the doors will be closed. First games will begin at 7 p. m. The Kingston gym holds approximately 700.

Two of the Ross County's top teams are entered in this tournament, Unioto and Centralia. They have met once this season with Unioto coming out on top, 55 to 53 in a battle of height against accuracy. The taller team won. Centralia coach, Dick Smith, has vowed revenge for his first league loss and in all probability these two teams will meet for the trophy.

Kingston, coached by Gary Walsh, has a 3-5 record to date. Led by the able play-making of Emory Carper and the rebounding of Larry Large, the Red Skins should provide plenty of trouble for Mammouth Unioto.

Unioto, 6 and 2 for the year, is coached by Leroy Silvani. Unioto will rely on its bankboard men, Slater, 6-, and Workman, 6-4, who

Centralia, 5-2, is the defending champ of this holiday tournament and will attempt to protect its title with the likes of Shaw and Floyd Myers, their huge center. The Bulldogs have played together throughout high school and are heavily favored to gain the finals. Steve Brudzinski and Leon Sims

Bobby Boyd Set To Joust Joseph

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Stiff-punching Bobby Boyd of Chicago will be out to regain a spot among the middleweight division's top ten contenders against smooth-boxing Charley Joseph of New Orleans in a 10-rounder tonight.

The 25-year-old Boyd dropped out of the top ten last month when he was stopped by rugged Rory Calhoun in New York.

Joseph, 26, is ranked eighth by King magazine and tenth by the National Boxing Assn. Joseph shows 43 victories in 49 fights.

Tar Heel '5' Puts Record on Block Tonight

To Pit Champions Kentucky Tournament Against Minnesota

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina's Tar Heels, who had all the answers a year ago, put their book of basketball knowledge to its first serious test of the new college season tonight.

The Tar Heels, skipping along on a carry-over 36-game winning streak, play unbeaten Minnesota in the opener of the class-jammed Kentucky Invitation tournament at Lexington.

Minnesota is 10th ranked nationally in the Associated Press poll and 3-0 against the likes of Southern Methodist, Iowa State and Vanderbilt. If the Gophers can't do it, then the Tar Heels will be confronted with tonight's West Virginia-Kentucky winner in the Saturday final.

Either match appears more of a problem than the defending national champs have had to solve in tacking victories over much-whipped Clemson, George Washington, Furman and South Carolina to last year's 32-0 record.

On the odd chance this tournament doesn't suit you, the two-day Blue Grass tourney opens tonight at Louisville with the host Louisville Cardinals playing Army and San Francisco meeting Seattle, another West Coast biggie. And the Carrousel tournament continues at Charlotte with semi-final action matching Tennessee against Louisiana Tech and Alabama against Louisiana State.

On the non-tournament level, Dayton, Western Kentucky, and Mississippi State, No. 18 nationally, had good nights Thursday.

Dayton crushed Fordham 64-35, allowing the Rams' only 12 points in the first half and only nine field goals in the game. Western Kentucky, with massive Ralph Crosthwaite scoring 35 and moving around like a sprinter, routed Seton Hall 101-75 in the wrapup of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader after New York Univ. had downed South Carolina, 81-66 in the opener. Mississippi State, winning its seventh in a row behind Bailey Howell's 39-point spurge, cuffed Murray (Ky) State 86-69.

Among the dwindling unbeaten, Boston Univ. won its fourth, 65-55 over Colgate; Niagara its fifth, 79-72 over Scranton; Princeton its fifth, 80-47 over Rutgers; and Boston College its sixth, 92-62 over Brandeis. But little Tufts, thrice-beaten, chopped Harvard off the perfect-record list, 68-63.

Southern Methodist, apparently back in form, defeated Auburn 75-65, and Bob MacGillivray's fielder with 17 seconds left won for North Carolina State over Villanova, 57-56.

Wisconsin won its fourth in five, 59-58 from Butler, escaping when Butler's Bob Plump, sixth best free throw man in the nation last year, blew one after time had run out. Purdue's second half rally stopped South Dakota 74-62 and Indiana, defending co-champ of the Big Ten, finally won its first after three losses, 79-66 over St. Mary's (Calif.).

Georgia tripped Georgia Tech 69-68 on Ray Allen's free throw with 23 seconds left in overtime and Tulane's record went to 3-1 with a 65-58 defeat of Virginia Tech.

Once-beaten Georgetown (DC) defeated St. Peter's (NJ) for its fifth straight. Texas Christian, now 5-1, beat Howard Payne 80-62, and sub Wayne Hester's set shooting paced Nebraska's 61-53 victory over Ohio U.

Red Rocha Named To Pilot Pistons

DETROIT (AP) — Hawaii born Ephraim (Red) Rocha, whose one season of play with the Pistons caught the eye of owner Fred Zollner, has been named new head coach of the Detroit National Basketball Assn. club.

The 34-year-old sheet metal salesman was a surprise choice Thursday to replace Charley Eckman, the fast-talking, cigar-chewing one-time NBA referee who directed the Pistons to two Western Division titles and a tie for another at Fort Wayne before he was forced to resign.

Newton Falls High Put on Probation

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio High School Athletic Assn. has placed Newton Falls High School in Trumbull County on probation until Jan. 1, 1959, because of a fracas following a football game Oct. 25.

H. W. Emswiler, head of the association, Thursday said Newton Falls' coach, James Hober, punched head linesman Joe Begala during an argument following a game between Newton Falls and Ravenna Southeast. The argument started because Begala put a couple of Newton Falls players out of the game.

Jockey Bill Hartack won 35 races in 101 chances during the month of October, 1957. He won 59 races in July while accepting 158 mounts.

ONE TO STAY; THE OTHER?—Michigan State's football coach, Duffy Daugherty (right), who announced that he will stay at the East Lansing school rather than take an offered Texas A&M. job, listens to Fritz Crisler, Michigan's athletic director, at Chicago meeting. Crisler may go to the Pacific Coast conference as commissioner. (International)

Buckeyes Own Better Record In Coming Battle of Roses

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

Bowl biz, the Rose Bowl, if you will: Ohio State, the favorite, won eight games in a row after being upset by Texas Christian in the opener, 18 to 14.

Oregon, winners of seven games, lost to Pittsburgh, 6 to 3; to Washington, 13 to 6, and to Oregon State, 10 to 7.

Only team both clubs met was Washington, which licked Oregon but was hacked, 35 to 7, by the Buckeyes.

ACTUALLY, the two teams compare very favorably in offensive statistics, despite the better record of the Bucks and a much tougher schedule.

Oregon made 162 first downs in 10 games while Ohio State recorded 167 in nine games.

The "Webfoots" had 652 plays and the Bucks had 627. Oregon gained 2,058 net yards rushing compared to the Ohio total of 2,681 yards.

Ohio State is considered a grind 'em-out team, using mostly ground plays, but their passing doesn't compare with that of Oregon.

Ohio tossed 72 times and completed 35 for a 445-yard gain and four touchdowns. Oregon attempted 127 passes and completed 66 for 839 yards and eight touchdowns.

Individually, the Buckeyes were led by Don Clark, Bob White and Dick LeBeau. Clark had 118 rushes for 655 yards and scored eight touchdowns although he missed the last two games. White, who carried 89 times, gained 552 yards. And LeBeau had 84 rushes for 379 yards and seven touchdowns. Frank Kremblas, the quarterback, had a 439 completion rate in passing.

THE Oregon workhorses, Jim Shanley, halfback, and Jack Morris, the fullback, piled up most of the team's rushing yardage. Shanley had 664 yards gained in 168 carries and Morris finished with 611 in 104 carries. Jack Crabtree, the quarterback, attempted 99 psases, completing 55, for a .555 average.

End Ron Stover of Oregon caught 24 passes for 247 yards and two touchdowns. Ohio's best end, Leo Brown, caught only seven passes for 83 yards and no touchdowns.

Kremblas topped Morris in the punting department, the Ohio State signal caller booting 24 times for a 37-yard average. Morris kicked 33 for a 35-yard mark.

Tigers at Greenfield, Ten Other Area Games on Tap

Basketball will be in the spotlight with 11 games scheduled in the county and surrounding areas.

Circleville's Tigers will lead the parade of hardwood tests with a trip to Greenfield McClain for a South Central Ohio League tilt. The CHS eagles will be after their first loop win in two starts and their fourth in six outings. Greenfield has lost two and won none in SCOL play.

A top game in the Pickaway County League will feature Scioto at Walnut. Although Walnut has dropped two of three league tests, the Tigers are still considered contenders for loop honors.

Scioto has won four and lost one in the circuit.

Two other games which may have an important bearing on league standings are New Holland at Pickaway and Jackson at Darby. Darby is currently leading the loop with a 3-0 record.

Other contests slated are Ashville at Atlanta, Williamsport at Saltercreek, Amanda at Rushville, Laurelville at Murray City, Kingstop at Clarksburg, Millersport at Stoutsville and Centralia at Frankfort.

Buck Players Picked for Rose Bowl

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio State's Rose Bowl-bound football team is enjoying a pre-Christmas holiday today. The 40-man squad takes off for the West Coast by plane at 8 a. m. Saturday.

Coach Woody Hayes held his last practice here Wednesday and then gave the Buckeyes the next two days off.

Players making the trip to Pasadena to face Oregon Jan. 1:

Dick Anders, Birtho Arnold, Ron Bailey, Tom Baldacci, Russ Bow-ermaster, Ed Breehl, Leo Brown, Joe Cannavino, Galen Cisco, Don Clark, Ron Cook, Al Crawford, Tom Crawford, John Dresser, Larry Disher, Jerry Fields, Dan Fronk, Jim Houston, Dan James, Bill Jobko, Herb Jones, Frank Kremblas, Dick LeBeau, Jim Marshall, John Martin, Jim Matz, Dick Michael, Tom Morgan, Andy Okulovich, Phil Robinson, Dick Schaftrath, Fred Schenking, Bruce Schram, Ernie Spychalski, Don Sutherland, Aurelius Thomas, Joe Trivisonno, Ed Walsh, Bill Wentz and Bob White.

The Oregon Rose Bowl team also will leave by plane Saturday for Los Angeles.

Bad weather Thursday kept the team indoors. A practice session had been planned but because of a wind and rain storm, the drill was limited to calisthenics.

Williams Collects '57 Slugging Title

CHICAGO (AP) — Boston's Ted Williams, winner of his fifth American League batting championship with .388, today was certified for the slugging crown with the highest major league mark in 16 years, .731.

The slugging title is determined by dividing total bases by the number of times officially at bat. Williams in 1957 hit for 307 total bases in 420 trips, including 38 homers, 28 doubles and one triple in winning his ninth slugging title.

New York's Mickey Mantle, voted the AL's most valuable player last season, was second in slugging with .665, followed by Washington's Roy Sievers with .579.

Twin brothers Bill and Jim Berrier were outstanding football players for Juniata during the 1957 season. Both played in the backfield.

Top Stars Booked For Hula Bowl Test

HONOLULU (AP) — Rosters for Hawaii's 12th annual Hula Bowl game read like a "who's who" of the college and professional football stars.

All America John Crow of Texas A&M, winner of the Heisman award, tops an array of college talent which will fly to the islands for the Jan. 5 contest. Coach Buck Shaw of the Air Force Academy will pilot the collegians.

Coaching the Hawaii All-Stars, made up of 12 pros and 10 Hawaii-stationed military gridders, is Elroy (Crazylegs) Hirsch, Los Angeles Rams ace. His squad includes Tobin Rote, Detroit Lions quarterback; San Francisco 49er Joe Perry and Frank Gifford of the New York Giants.

Stanford Lingers In Pacific Loop

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Stanford has decided to remain in the webby Pacific Coast Conference for the time being and help with "unfinished business" including the circuit's contract with the Big Ten for the annual Rose Bowl football game.

A statement by President J. E. Wallace Sterling, following a board of trustees meeting Thursday, appeared to leave the door open for the Indians to pull out later, however.

Future of the 42-year-old conference remains doubtful.

California, UCLA, Southern California and Washington plan to leave the conference in a dispute over aid to athletes.

Kingston, Host to Holiday Tourney, Opens with Unioto

Drawings were held yesterday at the Kingston High School for pairings in the Kingston Christmas Holiday Basketball Tournament. Kingston will oppose Unioto in the opening game and Clarksburg will meet Centralia in the second contest.

The tournament will be played on December 27 and 28. The doors will be open at 6 p. m. both nights and when the tickets are sold the doors will be closed. First games will begin at 7 p. m. The Kingston gym holds approximately 700.

Two of the Ross County's top teams are entered in this tournament, Unioto and Centralia. They have met once this season with Unioto coming out on top, 55 to 53 in a battle of height against accuracy. The taller team won. Centralia coach, Dick Smith, has vowed revenge for his first league loss and in all probability these two teams will meet for the trophy.

Kingston, coached by Gary Walsh, has a 3-5 record to date. Led by the able play-making of Emory Carper and the rebounding of Larry Large, the Red Skins should provide plenty of trouble for Mammouth Unioto.

Unioto, 6 and 2 for the year, is coached by Leroy Silvani. Unioto will rely on its bankboard men, Slater, 6-, and Workman, 6-4, who stopped Centralia's ace scorer Bobby Shaw in their sixth win.

IN THE SECOND game on opening night, Clarksburg, 5 and 3, will rest on its youngsters, sophomore Ater and junior Bryant, to test the basketball ability of the more experienced Centralia Bulldogs. Clarksburg is coached by Gene Burshart.

Centralia, 5-2, is the defending champ of this holiday tournament and will attempt to protect its title with the likes of Shaw and Floyd Myers, their huge center. The Bulldogs have played together throughout high school and are heavily favored to gain the finals.

Steve Brudzinski and Leon Sims have been named the officials for the tournament. The trophy and game ball have been donated by a Chillicothe sporting goods firm.

Dayton '5' Humbles Fordham As Rams Get Only 9 Goals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fordham, which Tuesday night gave Xavier a hard battle before losing 85-82, had one of the "cold-st" nights seen on Ohio courts this year.

The Rams hit only nine field goals, Thursday night in their 64-35 defeat at the hands of Dayton. At the half, the score stood at an almost unheard of 31-12.

The Flyers had little trouble in coasting to their fifth victory. They have one defeat, Fordham now has a 3-3 record.

Jack McCarthy and Arlen Bock-horn led Dayton scoring with 14 points. Jim Cunningham was the high point man for the Rams, hitting one of 11 tries from the field and adding seven free throws for nine points.

Fordham as a team hit only 9 of 47 field goal tries. The Flyers had 25 of 69.

Central State's 77-72 victory over previously undefeated Hope of Michigan was the only Ohio win in five other games involving Earlham of Indiana roared into Tiffin and roared out with a 62-57 win over Heidelberg. It was the Student Princes' fifth loss in six starts.

Ohio University, which won its first two games of the year, dropped its fourth straight, this time at the hands of the Nebraska Cornhuskers 61-53 in Lincoln, Neb.

The score was tied seven times during the second half with the Bobcats leading by one point on three occasions, but a series of four straight set shots by Wayne Hester broke the game open.

Larry Wesleyan journeyed to Chicago to take on Loyola and was turned back 89-66. It marked the fourth defeat for the Bishops. They have won two.

Baldwin-Wallace continued to have its troubles in the Quantico Marine Invitational Tournament. The Yellow Jackets were defeated 71-54 by Hartwick of New York for their third straight loss in the tourney and wound up last among eight teams.

In one intra-state battle, Mount Union had little trouble in defeating Case Tech 78-41 in Alliance. The Mounts built up a 48-14 halftime lead and then coasted the rest of the way.

Michigan State set a Big Ten football record when the Spartans rolled up 32 first downs against Indiana in their first meeting.

Hartman Says Circleville Schools in 'Model' Class

Circleville's school system could well serve as a model for the nation, according to School Superintendent George Hartman.

The school administrator spoke to the Circleville Rotary Club yesterday noon in the Elks Lodge. His subject was "Education."

Hartman told the Rotarians that Circleville schools score well in all educational departments, but there are still weaknesses which are largely weaknesses of our time plague all schools.

Hartman pointed out that America is producing intelligent children, but there are two major weaknesses in the U. S.—lack of willingness to work, to excel and to learn.

In comparing Russia's educational system with ours, Hartman pointed out that Russians have an intensive 10-year school, with only about 6 students in every 1,000 going on to college. Here we have 17 of every 1,000 going on to higher education. Russians send only those students with high IQs to college. Here, every student is given the opportunity of continuing his education.

"OUR SYSTEM has given us the highest standard of living ever achieved by another nation," Hartman declared.

He scolded parents and society for the unwillingness to work by some students. He said the talk of the four-hour work day and constant pressure for more money for less work affects our children.

In some places parents have pressured homework out of existence. "This is robbery of educational opportunity," Hartman stated.

However, the school head declared that "a large majority of the boys and girls still work hard."

"Superior students struggle for acceptance in social groups. The pressure is terrific. They soon learn to minimize their efforts. They tell their friends that they get their work so easy, with no study at all, even though they get their work so easy, with no study at all, even though they sit up five nights per week until 11 p. m. studying."

This they do to prevent their classmates from tagging them the name "bookworm", the "the brain", "the queer", "the square", and if their interest is in science "the egghead."

Hartman charged, "Our school children have too many activities and distractions. We need to guard our activity program and not allow activities to destroy basic education. We could soon give away half our instruction time at school."

"The American public plays up athletics and makes a hero out of a good athlete. Don't you think it about time that we give equal emphasis to scholastic achievement and that we create the desire to excel scholastically?" Hartman asked.

IN SPEAKING of finances, Hartman said the teacher is still the most important influence on instruction. He declared that the teacher shortage is worse than it would be if schools could pay attractive salaries.

"More scholarships must be made available if we are to train all the professional people the country needs," Hartman pointed out.

On schools generally, Hartman said, "Progressive education is nearly dead. In its place is evolving a school with more authority and better discipline. More respect for everyone connected with schools is coming. Schools with weak curriculum, poor guidance and no standards will become unpopular as we compete with Russia for survival."

"You won't find Circleville short," Hartman declared. He said the local high school has many students enrolled in chemistry and physics as are enrolled in the same classes at North High School. Our size is 600, North's 2,500.

"You will find every desired course in science and math being taught at Circleville this year."

"The most recent trend is a national change in attitude. The country realizes now that education is as important to defense as the hydrogen bomb and missile warfare. In the long run it will be through education that we will be able to keep ahead of the Communists," Hartman said.

He concluded, quoting an eminent scientist, Dr. Warren Weaver, who asks, "what is wrong that a free Christian society appears, at this tense moment of history, to be less alert, less dedicated, less imaginative than an amoral dictatorship. It is not in the skies that we must look, it is within ourselves."

Attendance buttons were awarded to Bob Brehmer, 36 years of perfect attendance since the Rotary Club was organized; Charles H. May, 29 years; Dr. Glen Philmann, 21 years; Bud Brehmer, 11 years; Mac Noggle, 8 years; Fritz Sieverts, 7 years; Eldred Parsons, 6 years; Earl Smith, 3 years; Ervin Leist, 2 years, and Lawrence Liston and William Defenbaugh, 1 year. Defenbaugh, president of Rotary, presided at the meeting.

Attended by 36 years of perfect attendance since the Rotary Club was organized; Charles H. May, 29 years; Dr. Glen Philmann, 21 years; Bud Brehmer, 11 years; Mac Noggle, 8 years; Fritz Sieverts, 7 years; Eldred Parsons, 6 years; Earl Smith, 3 years; Ervin Leist, 2 years, and Lawrence Liston and William Defenbaugh, 1 year. Defenbaugh, president of Rotary, presided at the meeting.

U. S. Atty. Paul W. Williams said: "There certainly will be another trial of this case and I shall try to have it brought to trial at the earliest practicable time."

Highly elated at the deadlock, Hoffa shook hands with his lawyer, Sol Gelb, and raced from the courtroom to phone his wife, Josephine, in Detroit.

Judge Frederick VanPelt Bryan was informed by note late Thursday that 11 members were "in accord with a decision" but that one juror "will not give credence to circumstantial evidence."

BRYAN SUMMONED the panel and asked the jury: "Is there anything I can clarify for you?"

The foreman, Mrs. Lillian Doren, a Park Avenue receptionist, said testily: "You ask Mr. MacHardy."

She glanced over her shoulder at juror No. nine, Earle T. MacHardy, a sugar broker.

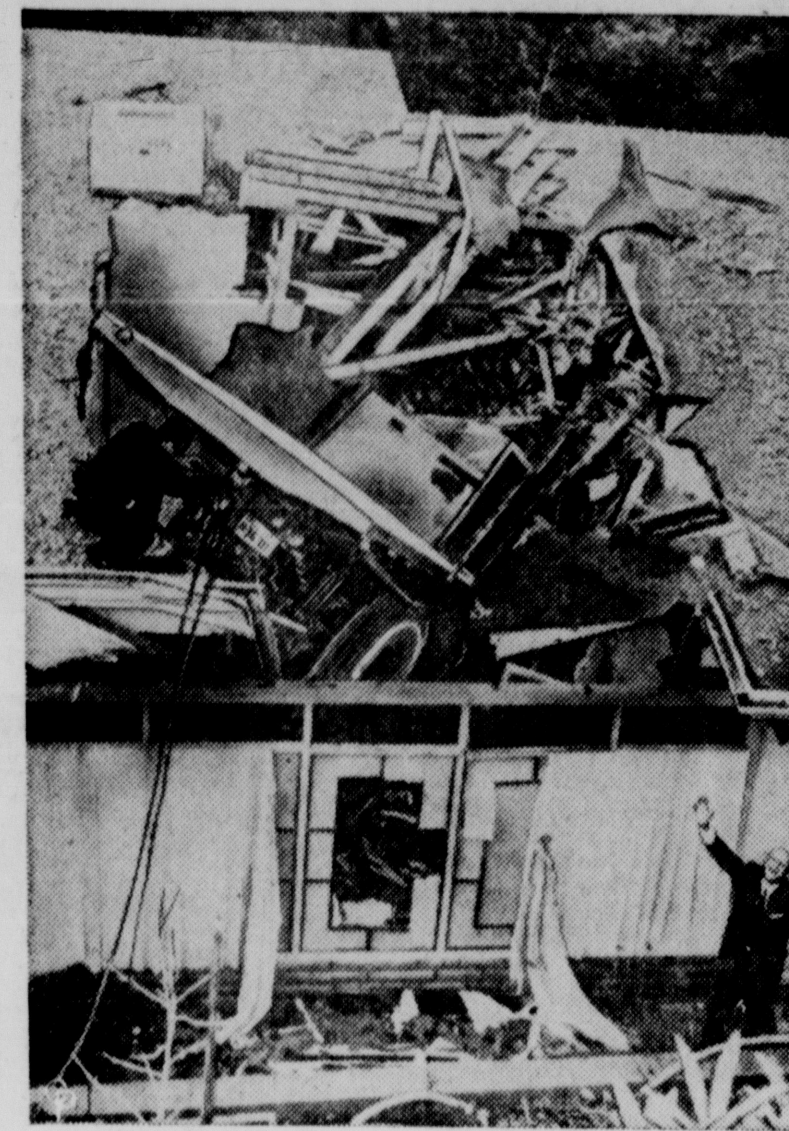

"Is there anything bothering you, Mr. MacHardy?" Bryan asked the juror.

"No, nothing is bothering me," MacHardy replied.

The judge briefly reviewed circumstantial evidence and told him: "You are not required to justify here any position you take in the jury room and there is not the slightest indication of any one here trying to change or alter your viewpoint."

When asked later about the situation, Gelb told reporters the incident was "an unprecedented coercion of a juror."

Veteran court observers said singling out a juror in this manner was highly unusual.

23 Brothers Ruled To Be No 'Family'

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—A court says Delta Chi will have to vacate a house in Schenectady because 23 fraternity brothers don't constitute a family.

The city had ordered the Union College chapter to move because the area is zoned for single-family residences. The chapter fought the action, maintaining that bonds between members made them a family within the zoning law.

Justices of the appellate division of state supreme courts said yesterday "we decline to follow" that reasoning. They said the 23 had no blood relationship.

Santa Claus, Ariz., Reports Kids Prefer 'Earthly' Toys

SANTA CLAUS, Ariz. (AP)—Santa Claus is getting plenty of requests for spacehips and the like this year, but most youngsters seem to prefer the same old earthly favorites in toys.

Two of Santa's busiest helpers say the adult world's scientific influence has not swept the kiddies off their feet.

The helpers are Mr. and Mrs. R. A. (Doc) Bromaghin, operators of this tiny northwestern Arizona highway resort which annually receives thousands of letters to Santa Nick.

The letters started pouring in from all over the world after the couple appeared on a nationwide television show a few years ago and told how they answer letters for Santa.

The Bromaghins, who estimate they open 1,000 letters on a peak day, say interest in Sputniks and missiles is reflected in letters like the one from Carl Delahoussaye of New Iberia, La. Carl asked for "a football, a walkie-talkie and a mobile atomic cannon."

Hoffa Wiretap Jury Hangs; Another Trial To Be Sought

NEW YORK (AP)—The federal court wiretap conspiracy trial of James R. Hoffa, president-elect of the Teamsters Union, and two others ended today in a hung jury. The panel of seven men and five women reported it was hopelessly deadlocked, 11 to 1 for conviction.

On trial with Hoffa were Owen B. Brennan, president of Detroit Teamsters, and Bernard Spindel, a professional wiretapper.

They were charged with conspiring here to tap illegally telephones in the Detroit Teamsters building to find out what information union subordinates were giving to official racket investigators. Conviction carried a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $10,000 fine.

The jurors began their deliberations at 4 p. m. Wednesday and

Ohio Chamber of Commerce Backs 'Right-to-Work' Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—So-called "right-to-work" legislation got a boost Thursday when the Ohio Chamber of Commerce announced it will urge its membership to support the work of two groups who have been pushing for the legislation.

The Ohio Labor Committee for Right to Work was incorporated Sept. 12 to seek the enactment of legislation and Ohioans for Right to Work was incorporated Nov. 21 to seek the 354,210 valid signatures needed to submit to the voters a proposed amendment to the state's constitution.

Under "right-to-work" legislation, an employee is not required to join a union to hold a job. This is opposed to the union shop, where a worker must join the union after a specific time of employment.

The Chamber's board of directors, meeting here, said it felt the better method "would be to secure a direct vote of the people on a basic principle, that of compulsion versus voluntarism."

Herschel Atkinson, the Chamber's executive vice president, said the group will ask the Ohio Labor Committee to consider joining with those who would seek to decide the issue at the polls in November, 1958.

He said the chamber will ask the Ohioans for right to work to include in its proposal amendment, "an additional provision that labor-management contracts in existence at the time of its enactment be allowed to stand, up to two years. This would facilitate an orderly adjustment of contractual relationship which involves several hundred thousand employees of corporations and business firms in Ohio."

Atkinson added: "This issue is in no sense a contest between management and organized labor. Opinion is divided within business management and within ranks of membership of unions, and the final decision will be made by the entire general public."

Some factions contend that "right-to-work" legislation is nothing more than union busting. Proponents say it does away with compulsory union membership and replaces it with voluntary membership.

Blood Transfusion Refused, Youth Dies

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A 19-year-old boy who agreed with his father that he should not accept a blood transfusion because of their religious belief died here Thursday.

John Black Jr. had been hospitalized since Tuesday with a .22-caliber bullet wound in the neck. He was playing with a friend and the gun accidentally discharged.

The elder Black, who said he is a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses, refused to allow the transfusion, and told doctors his son agreed with the decision. Doctors warned that the youth would die if he didn't get a transfusion.

Hartman Says Circleville Schools in 'Model' Class

Circleville's school system could well serve as a model for the nation, according to School Superintendent George Hartman.

The school administrator spoke to the Circleville Rotary Club yesterday noon in the Elks Lodge. His subject was "Education."

Hartman told the Rotarians that Circleville schools score well in all educational departments, but there are still weaknesses which are largely weaknesses of our time which plague all schools.

Hartman pointed out that America is producing intelligent children, but there are two major weaknesses in the U. S.—lack of willingness to work, to excel and finances.

In comparing Russia's educational system with ours, Hartman pointed out that Russians have an intensive 10-year school, with only about 6 students in every 1,000 going on to college. Here we have 17 of every 1,000 going on to higher education. Russians send only those students with high IQs to college. Here, every student is given the opportunity of continuing his education.

"OUR SYSTEM has given us the highest standard of living ever achieved by another nation," Hartman declared.

He scolded parents and society for the unwillingness to work by some students. He said the talk of the four-hour work day and constant pressure for more money for less work affects our children.

In some places parents have pressured homework out of existence. "This is robbery of educational opportunity," Hartman stated.

However, the school head declared that "a large majority of the boys and girls still work hard."

"Superior students struggle for acceptance in social groups. The pressure is terrific. They soon learn to minimize their efforts. They tell their friends that they get their work so easy, with no study at all, even though they get their work so easy, with no study at all, even though they sit up five nights per week until 11 p. m. studying."

This they do to prevent their classmates from tagging them the name "bookworm," the "square", "the queer", "the egghead", and if their interest is in science "the egghead."

Hartman charged, "Our school children have too many activities and distractions. We need to guard our activity program and not allow activities to destroy basic education. We could soon give away half our instruction time at school."

"The American public plays up athletics and makes a hero out of a good athlete. Don't you think its about time that we give equal emphasis to scholastic achievement and that we create the desire to excel scholastically?" Hartman asked.

IN SPEAKING of finances, Hartman said the teacher is still the most important influence on instruction. He declared that the teacher shortages is worse than it would be if schools could pay attractive salaries.

"More scholarships must be made available if we are to train all the professional people the country needs," Hartman pointed out.

On schools generally, Hartman said, "Progressive education is nearly dead. In its place is evolving a school with more authority and better discipline. More respect for everyone connected with schools is coming. Schools with weak curriculum, poor guidance and no standards will become unpopular as we compete with Russia for survival."

"You won't find Circleville short," Hartman declared. He said the local high school has many students enrolled in chemistry and physics as are enrolled in the same classes at North High School. Our size is 600, North's 2,500.

"You will find every desired course in science and math being taught at Circleville this year."

"The most recent trend is a national change in attitude. The country realizes now that education is as important to defense as the hydrogen bomb and missile warfare. In the long run it will be through education that we will be able to keep ahead of the Communists," Hartman said.

He concluded, quoting an eminent scientist, Dr. Warren Weaver, who asks, "what is wrong that a free Christian society appears, at this tense moment of history, to be less alert, less dedicated, less imaginative than an amoral dictatorship. It is not in the skies that we must look, it is within ourselves."

Attendance buttons were awarded to Bob Brehmer, 36 years of perfect attendance since the Rotary Club was organized; Charles H. May, 29 years; Dr. Glen Philmann, 21 years; Bud Brehmer, 11 years; Mac Noggle, 8 years; Fritz Sieverts, 7 years; Eldred Parsons, 6 years; Earl Smith, 3 years; Ervin Leist, 2 years, and Lawrence Liston and William Defenbaugh, 1 year. Defenbaugh, president of Rotary, presided at the meeting.

Santa Claus, Ariz., Reports Kids Prefer 'Earthly' Toys

SANTA CLAUS, Ariz. (AP)—Santa Claus is getting plenty of requests for space ships and the like this year, but most youngsters seem to prefer the same old earthly favorites in toys.

Two of Santa's busiest helpers say the adult world's scientific influence has not swept the kiddies off their feet.

The helpers are Mr. and Mrs. R. A. (Doc) Bromaghim, operators of this tiny northwestern Arizona highway resort which annually receives thousands of letters to Saint Nick.

The letters started pouring in from all over the world after the couple appeared on a nationwide television show a few years ago and told how they answer letters for Santa.

The Bromaghims, who estimate they open 1,000 letters on a peak day, say interest in Sputniks and missiles is reflected in letters like the one from Carl Delahoussaye of New Iberia, La. Carl asked for "a football, a walkie-talkie and a mobile atomic cannon."

Even there the long-time standbys prevail as they also do in the case of Jimmy Doyle of Las Vegas, Nev., who asks for "a rocket launcher, a doctor's set, a cowboy suit and boots with spurs."

The Bromaghims, who write individual replies in preference to form letters, usually say that Santa is busy at the North Pole and has asked them to write for him. They advise the youngsters to help mom and dad and that Santa will be headed their way soon. As an extra filip, they affix a special "Santa stamp" on the envelope.

"We don't charge anything for answering the letters," says Mrs. Bromaghim, explaining that the trouble of answering mail is more than offset by their love of youngsters and, of course, the goodwill advertising for their resort.

Nine-year-old Lorena Rogers of Gold Hill, Ore. wrote Santa: "I understand there are lots of little boys and girls besides me, Santa. I am asking you to send me something, just anything, Santa."

Hoffa Wiretap Jury Hangs; Another Trial To Be Sought

NEW YORK (AP)—The federal court wiretap conspiracy trial of James R. Hoffa, president-elect of the Teamsters Union, and two others ended today in a hung jury.

The panel of seven men and five women reported it was hopelessly deadlocked, 11 to 1 for conviction.

On trial with Hoffa were Owen B. Brennan, president of Detroit Teamsters, and Bernard Spindel, a professional wiretapper.

They were charged with conspiring here to tap illegally telephones in the Detroit Teamsters building to find out what information union subordinates were giving to official racket investigators. Conviction carried a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $10,000 fine.

The jurors began their deliberations at 4 p. m. Wednesday and were dismissed at 12:50 a. m. today. The trial began Nov. 22.

U. S. Atty. Paul W. Williams said: "There certainly will be another trial of this case and I shall try to have it brought to trial at the earliest practicable time."

Highly elated at the deadlock, Hoffa shook hands with his lawyer, Sol Gelb, and raced from the courtroom to phone his wife, Josephine, in Detroit.

Judge Frederick VanPelt Bryan was informed by note late Thursday that 11 members were "in accord with a decision" but that one juror "will not give credence to circumstantial evidence."

BRYAN SUMMONED the panel and asked the jury: "Is there anything I can clarify for you?"

The foreman, Mrs. Lillian Doren, a Park Avenue receptionist, said testily: "You ask Mr. MacHardy."

She glanced over her shoulder at juror No. nine, Earle T. MacHardy, a sugar broker.

"Is there anything bothering you, Mr. MacHardy?" Bryan asked the juror.

"No, nothing is bothering me," MacHardy replied.

The judge briefly reviewed circumstantial evidence and told him: "You are not required to justify here any position you take in the jury room and there is not the slightest indication of any one here trying to change or alter your viewpoint."

When asked later about the situation, Gelb told reporters the incident was "an unprecedented coercion of a juror."

Veteran court observers said singling out a juror in this manner was highly unusual.
